Phillips Issues Critique On Area Blackout

By FRANK DRAKE.

You're never so good you're perfect, says George M. Phillips, civilian defense director for metropolitan Atlanta, and so yesterday he twisted his mind's microscope to the notch marked "What was wrong with our splendid blackout Monday night?" and came right up with the following on his "Things To Be Done" pad:

1. Teach the air raid wardens that they are not traffic policemen—they have as much work being air raid wardens as they can handle.
2. Eliminate "general instructors" and provide a uniform method of instruction on all phases of civilian defense—get specialists to teach each subject.
3. Improve the communication system—have all air raid wardens appoint their wives "assistant wardens" so the wives will know what to do when CD telephone calls come in while hubby is out.
4. Attain a closer organization between air raid wardens and auxiliary police—provide auxiliary police headquarters in precincts and sectors so the air raid wardens can get help quickly when it is needed.
5. Train more fire watchers! This city will get 10,000 pump tanks soon to combat the blazes of

WATCH OUT, TOKYO!—One fine, bright morning the Paramarines hope to bail out over Tokyo. Here they are diving out of a plane yesterday at the Atlanta Municipal airport to show Atlantans what a mass jump looks like. The Paramarines came out of the plane to form stepping stones as their parachutes opened—stepping stones to a victory for America and her allies.

CAREFUL THERE NOW—Each Paramarine packs his own parachute and is responsible for it. They double up to get the long silk folds started in the groove. Long tables are used for the packing job. These were rolling their own before yesterday's jump at the airport here. They are here to aid in forming the Marine Cracker Platoon.

Marines Chute From Clouds To Lead Off 'Cracker Parade'

Municipal Airport Scene Likened to Raid on Tokyo.

The Marine transport plane came in fast and fairly low. A figure dived head first from the doorway. Bing . . . Bing . . . Bing. Eleven more Paramarines dived head to heel toward the earth, their parachutes popping open as if obeying quick-snapping fingers. The Paramarines, swinging as if on trapezes, struck the ground. They bounced, tumbled and rolled. The plane swung back across the field. Bing . . . Bing . . . Bing. A dozen more piled out, their 'chutes blossoming into giant mushrooms as they floated against the clouds.

So thousands of Atlantans scattered on and around the Municipal Airport saw their first mass parachute jumps yesterday morning just before noon. There was plenty of preparation and waiting for the jump signal. "Go!" But when time came to jump, you'd have thought the boys were bailing out over Tokyo. They came down fast. Half a minute after the first hit the air, the last man was slapping the dirt. The Paramarines were rushed from the airport in jeeps to lead the parade through downtown streets. Marines, Red Cross Motor Corps, drum majorettes and members of the All-Georgia "Cracker platoon" marched in the parade.

Jersey. "I got into parachute jumping a couple of years ago. Though it would be different and more exciting, you know."

The 5-foot, 5-inch Sergeant DeRosa, who is 140 pounds of pig iron and spring steel, went on to explain that he never went in for athletics much in school.

"Closest I got to playing football was cheerleader," the instructor laughed, "but I don't like to mention that."

"Yeah, you get butterflies in the stomach every jump. It's the waiting. Everything's all right as soon as you get three feet from that open door. You feel inanimate then. Like a block of wood. There's no sensation of jumping or falling. It's just like you were a block of wood."

'Sonny' was gone again. Now he's home again!

Senate Passes Vote-by-Mail Proposal, 47-5

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The senate voted 47 to 5 today to permit men and women in the United States armed forces throughout the world to vote by mail for senators, representatives and presidential electors without registration and without payment of poll taxes required in eight southern states.

The voters, however, would have to meet any other requirements of state laws, such as those respecting length of residence within the state, minimum voting ages or property qualifications.

An amendment exempting active members of the services from payment of poll taxes required by Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Virginia, South Carolina and Arkansas carried 33 to 20 over the opposition of a group of southerners, including Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, who denounced it as an "invasion" of state rights and as "clearly unconstitutional."

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, and Chairman Green, Democrat, Rhode Island, of the Elections Committee, expressed fear the addition of this amendment, because of its controversial nature, might prevent enactment of the bill in time to apply it to the November elections. (The measure, previously passed by the house, goes back there for action on the senate changes.)

Green and Barkley also opposed another amendment, carried 28 to 25, extending the provisions of the house-approved bill to primaries as well as general elections.

Senator George, Democrat, of Georgia, expressed the view the bill would permit absentee voting by soldiers from all states except Kentucky, whose courts have held that the voter must, under the state constitution, present himself in person in order to vote. Senator Brooks, Republican, Illinois, and Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, sponsored the anti-poll tax amendment, although Pepper accused Brooks of "placardism or legislative hi-jacking" in offering the amendment while the Florida senator's own amendment was pending on the desk. (Senator George and Russell voted against the poll tax amendment.) (Soldier Bill Won't Affect Governor Race. Story on Page 2.)

Reds Counterattack North of Stalingrad

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Wednesday, Aug. 26.—(P)—The Russian high command said today that the Red army had made seven counterattacks at one point northwest of Stalingrad, but it mentioned that industrial city for the first time in a communique, indicating that the 1,000,000 Germans who were smashing at the defense walls had made some progress.

The communique, however, did not mention any Russian withdrawals, either northwest or southwest of Stalingrad where the Germans were threatening the city with ponderous masses of tanks, paratroopers, air-borne motorcyclists and endless masses of infantry.

"Our troops are repulsing enemy attacks and inflicting huge losses," the communique said. The high command said heavy fighting also was continuing in the Caucasus south of Krasnodar, where the Germans were driving toward the Black sea, and in the Prokhladnenski area, 85 miles west of the rich Grozny oil fields.

Attacks Repulsed. Attacks in both these areas have been repulsed, the Russians said, and in the Prokhladnenski sector detachments of automatic riflemen landed behind Russian lines and had to be wiped out.

An indication of the intense fighting around Stalingrad was seen in Russian claims of heavy tank and airplane losses inflicted on the Germans. One Soviet unit was said to have destroyed 17 tanks in one day, another 22 and a third 14. Soviet planes and anti-aircraft batteries "at the approaches of Stalingrad" destroyed 92 German planes in two days.

The Germans were less than 40 miles from the city on both sides, perhaps considerably closer in places. With their Axis allies they were believed to number

Halve-College-Pay Plan Still Stands

Confidential reports came yesterday from the headquarters of Governor Talmadge that the Governor is determined to carry out his plan to halve the salaries of professors if state colleges were de-accredited.

The plans were made last August 20 at a press conference and concerned the threat at that time of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to remove the Georgia colleges involved in the Talmadge purge from the accredited lists, which they later did.

The Governor said he had advised Chancellor S. V. Sanford that in such an eventuality he would slash salaries of all professors in half because "they wouldn't be worth as much."

from 80 to 100 divisions in all. The divisions varied in size from 9,000 to 20,000 troops.

Russian dispatches said these numbers on some of the approaches to Stalingrad were "vastly superior." In one sector, one dispatch reported grimly: "Fascist tanks are fighting Russian infantrymen."

Swarms of Bombers.

Swarms of German dive-bombers were dumping tons of bombs on the defenders of Stalingrad; German fighters were machine-gunning every objective they could find.

Up to late afternoon the military dispatches did not mention any Russian evacuation—neither surging toward the Grozny oil fields and the city of Ordzhonikidze.

Grozny, in addition to possessing a rich oil pool, has in the past been a storage depot for more than a million barrels of east Caucasian oil.

Stalingrad is the key to the Volga which links the Caucasus to the heart of the Russian, via the Caspian seaports. The Germans are within 170 miles of the Caspian itself.

(Late Berlin broadcasts said German tanks, southwest of Stalingrad, had broken through 7 1/2 miles of Soviet bunker defenses.)

(The German high command reported advances "despite desperate Bolshevik resistance" both northwest and south of Stalingrad. In the Caucasus, German Alpine troops occupied several mountain passes, the communique said, and one group four days

Several Cruisers Hit When Enemy Seeks To Retake Islands

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Army and Navy sea and air forces have joined battle with a huge Japanese armada attempting to smash the American offensive in the Solomon Islands, the Navy announced today, and so far have inflicted heavy damage on the enemy.

First reports made public from the fighting zone did not indicate the extent of American losses but showed that more than a half dozen enemy ships had been effectively bombed or torpedoed with these results:

One large carrier, otherwise not identified, hit four times by Army bombers.

One smaller carrier, the Ryuzo, severely damaged by Navy carrier-based aircraft.

One battleship hit by carrier-based planes.

Several cruisers hit by carrier-based planes.

Ships Left Burning.

One other cruiser and one enemy transport hit by United States aircraft yesterday in what appears to have been the preliminary phases of the battle. Both ships were left burning fiercely.

The Solomons campaign burst into violent fighting after a period of desultory activity marked on August 23 by an enemy air attack on Guadalcanal island in which 21 Jap planes were shot down while American forces suffered only minor damage. On the same night enemy destroyers bombarded Marine shore positions.

Naval forces under Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley, commander in the New Zealand area, and Army Air Forces of General Douglas MacArthur in Australia had been prepared for strong Japanese counterattacks, and presumably were in position to deal the enemy powerful blows.

A naval communique announcing that the battle was under way said that "it was expected that our occupation of the important enemy base of Tulagi would be countered by a violent attempt on the part of the enemy to recapture their shore bases in this area."

"This counterattack has developed and is now being met," the communique added.

Amphibious Warfare.

Indications were that the first actions were of the plane versus warship variety which have become so familiar in the amphibious warfare of the Pacific. Whether there has been any fighting directly between warships was not known.

The enemy armada, when engaged, was bearing down upon the American-held southeastern Solomons from the northeast. There was some speculation in Washington that the enemy armada had been concentrated for the attack at Japan's Truk island naval base and moved against the Solomons in a sweeping maneuver designed to gain the advantage of surprise if possible.

But the concentration might have been made at any of a number of other bases in the enemy's mandated island zone and sent against the Solomons with equal facility. One thing that was clear from the communique was that this represented Japan's major effort to break up the American offensive and recapture the Tulagi area of the Solomons where construction of a big enemy base was well advanced when the Marines began their invasion two and a half weeks ago.

It was on August 7 that the Navy executed a surprise attack, and the Marines, possibly led by their secretly trained, heavily armed raider battalions, creation of which Washington disclosed only today, landed on the beaches and swiftly drove inland against vigorous opposition to win and hold dominant points of the terrain.

Three Efforts.

Prior to the present battle the Japs had made three main efforts to break up the American campaign. At the outset they attempted to repel the landing parties, and brought aerial forces into play against transport ships and their protective naval units. In the first two days of the fighting, they lost 36 planes.

Then on the night of August 8-9 the enemy came in with a force of cruisers and destroyers for an attack on the American troop and supply ships. They were intercepted by American warships, and the first strictly naval battle of the war between United States and Japanese fleet forces resulted. Enemy losses, the Navy said, were not accurately determined in the darkness, but the United States Navy suffered a cruiser sunk and cruisers and destroyers damaged.

The third big Japanese effort was made on the night of August 21. By that time Marine attacks had scattered the enemy's garrisons and sent their troops fleeing into the jungle. The Japanese navy landed a new force of 700 men.

In fighting that night and the next day this force was wiped out, with 670 killed and 30 captured. The Marines lost 28 killed and 72 wounded.

Text of today's Navy communique follows:

"South Pacific.

"1. U. S. naval and air forces are engaged in a large-scale battle at sea in an attempt to repel

Mild Weather Returns After 64-Degree Low

The weather forecast for today is "continued mild," after a cool spell yesterday that sent the thermometer to only 79 degrees for a high reading. Low was 64 degrees. This was the first time in more than a month when the high reading dropped below 80 degrees. Weatherman Glen Jefferson said. The high temperature on July 23 was 78 degrees.

'The Long Snow' Soon Will Settle Over Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A sharp wind whistled down the streets tonight and a shuddering chambermaid slammed shut the windows, muttering:

Swift Allied Coup to Relieve Russia Looms

Churchill Gives His War Cabinet Details of Stalin Parley.

By ROBERT BUNNELL. LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A swift Allied coup to relieve Russia with a hard, weighty smash at the Axis was predicted by competent Allied circles tonight as Prime Minister Churchill disclosed to his war cabinet associates the details of his epochal talks with Joseph Stalin.

Reports persisted that a united commander for a British, United States and Canadian continental invasion already had been appointed, but there was no such announcement. Unofficial British and American commentators, who declined to be quoted by name, said General George C. Marshall, U. S. chief of staff, was one of the most likely choices, particularly in view of the growing number of U. S. troops and fliers fighting under British commanders in the Mediterranean theater.

If Marshall indeed were the man to lead the invaders his selection might be one of the reasons for the imminent return to the United States of W. Averell Harriman, President Roosevelt's personal representative at the Churchill-Stalin conversations.

Harriman, in announcing his return home a day after flying in from Egypt with Churchill, declared:

"I found the same determination and confidence in the outcome of the war among the Russians as I did on my trip with Lord Beaverbrook last year." Stalin, Harriman asserted, appeared "strong and confident," and he said the decisions reached in Moscow were entirely satisfactory to the three major allies. He said U. S. supplies "were going to the Soviet in substantial quantities." A continental assault long has been expected as the Allies' most logical move in the war. London informants declared that Hitler was throwing his full might against south Russia and that if his present offensive is successful, the United States and Britain will be relegated to a defensive role and the war would be greatly prolonged.

It is two months before the onset of Russian winter—a great factor in saving Moscow last year—and this gave urgency to Allied plans to relieve the worried Russians in the Stalingrad region and the passes of the Caucasus ranges.

Dieppe Gesture. BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 25.—(AP)—Hitler, "in appreciation of the attitude of the population of Dieppe" during Allied Commando raid of August 19, today ordered the release of all French war prisoners whose homes are in or near the city.

Business Still Governs WPB, Thomas Says

Auto Workers Ask Supreme Economic Command To End 'Chaos'

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—(AP) Creation of a supreme economic command was proposed today by the executive board of the CIO United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers to end what it termed "the chaos that now affects production, priorities, raw materials and manpower."

The proposal, one of seven made by the board, was announced in a statement by President R. J. Thomas, who asserted that "what is wrong with labor morale can be traced directly to the lack of effective direction in Washington."

"Business still dominates the War Production Board," Thomas said. Mr. Nelson (Donald M. Nelson, head of the WPB) apparently lacks the guts to clean out those businessmen who have placed their loyalty to corporate interests above the interests of the nation."

In addition to creation of the supreme command, on which management, labor and government would be represented, and elimination of "business minded" individuals from defense agencies, the board also proposed:

A proper system of inventory and allocation to end layoffs and unemployment; a ban on "phony" publicity on war production progress; immediate and large-scale government action on defense housing; price control "in actuality as well as on paper," and establishment of regional offices of the National War Labor Board to speed adjustment of disputes.

"Above all," Thomas declared, "the workers must be given the feeling that there is equality of sacrifice in the war effort."

Missing Calf Paid for After 30-Year Gap

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP) The drover who brought a herd of cattle to the slaughtering pen on the Louisville road near here some 30 years ago, now may collect for one of the flock that was missing. Lieutenant Grover T. Hatch, of the police department, has been assigned to find the cattleman and turn over a $6 money order from a man who showed the missing calf into a pasture and now wants to pay up.

Soldier Bill Won't Affect Governor Race

Will Have To Pass in Record Time To Affect Any.

Legislation approved by the U. S. Senate yesterday to permit members of the armed forces to vote in federal primary and general elections without registration or payment of poll taxes would have to be enacted here by Sunday appreciably to affect Georgia's Democratic primary September 9.

Should it be enacted before the end of the week, it would not affect the race for governor or other Georgia offices since it is applicable only to elections for federal offices. Only congressional races would be affected.

Georgia law requires that applications for absentee ballots be sent to county registrars at least 10 days in advance of the primary. To take effect by this year, the law provides that registrars must mail requested ballots to absentee voters at least nine days before the primary.

By Georgia law, members of the armed forces already are exempt from payment of poll taxes while in service and for six months before and after, but they are required to be registered.

The federal legislation waiving the registration requirement has not yet been approved by the house. To take effect by the time of the primary, the measure would have to be passed with unusual speed.

Recall Rented Typewriters, OPA Orders

Treasury Will Purchase Machines Made Since 1935.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration today ordered all rented standard typewriters, manufactured since January 1, 1935, returned to their owners by September 15 in order to be available for government purchases.

At the same time OPA prohibited after August 29 the rental of any new typewriter and any standard machine made since the start of 1935.

This left only used portable typewriters and old standards available for rental hereafter, and a three-month limit was placed on such rentals.

The typewriter return decree was intended to make machines available for the Army, Navy and other government agencies. Price Administrator Leon Henderson said the recent drive to get businessmen to sell 500,000 machines to the government "has not turned up a sufficient number."

The Treasury Department's procurement division will make the purchases for the armed forces, whose need, Henderson said, is "critical."

All persons who have rented typewriters of the types specified are required to turn them in to dealers before September 15, and if the machines are not returned dealers are instructed to notify state OPA offices, giving the name and address of the borrower.

The ban on rentals, however, does not affect persons or firms which are eligible for the purchase of typewriters under existing regulations. If any time should be left on rental contracts extending beyond the end of this month dealers are required to refund a proportionate amount or grant the customer a credit on the unexpired term. The regulation also permits dealers to add to the rental fee a "reasonable charge" for the pickup and delivery of the machines.

America Didn't Miss the Boat, Canadian Says

F. Philippe Brails Voices His Country's Admiration for U. S.

Canada has an unbounded admiration for the United States of America, regarding it as the one nation which did not miss the boat, and holds that the administration has done and is doing in like admiration.

This opinion was given in Atlanta yesterday by one of Canada's outstanding citizens, F. Philippe Brails, member of the Canadian cabinet from the province of Quebec and a life member of the Canadian Legislative Council.

A well-known attorney in Montreal, Cabinet Member Brails is joint chairman of the Dominion's finance committee in Quebec and a member of the executive board of the Dominion.

War Bond Sales. This committee has arranged three special loans and carries on a continuing war savings bond sale similar to the one in this nation. The "over-the-counter" method of buying stamps and bonds, in use in this country, has but recently been adopted in Canada.

On business in Atlanta, where he has friends, he believes the admiration which Canada has for this country and its war effort is reciprocated. The recent nine-hour raid at Dieppe, France, in which American and Canadian soldiers fought together, will solidify that mutual respect and admiration.

Canadian troops are serving side by side with Americans in the Aleutians, a fact not generally known in this country. The Canadians were sent there, along with a Canadian aviation unit, after the Japanese raid at Dutch Harbor. News of the aviation aid was announced, but, for some reason, said Mr. Brails, the public relations office did not announce the fact troops also were serving there with the Americans.

In a discussion of taxes, Mr. Brails said that taxes in Canada generally were higher than those of England, but that public opinion was of the mind to sacrifice anything to win the war. The few taxpayers in that country have no recognition than in this country.

Problem of Labor. The problem of farm labor is beginning to pinch, but is not yet acute, he said. Canada already has put into practice the use of school children on farms to help in harvesting crops. It is an unusual sight to see many of them driving tractors and doing other farm work at the age of 14.

Production in war industries is going up at a satisfactory manner, he said. "This country," he said, "is one country which we feel did not miss the boat, and we have an unbounded admiration for what it is doing and what it has done. We have the same admiration for the administration of this country."

Mr. Brails has six children and with their mother they all do some form of war work.

Auto-Buggy Crash Injures Three

Three persons were treated at Grady hospital Monday night for injuries sustained when an automobile struck a buggy just outside of the city limits on Highway 42.

Wiley Homer Baggett, 30, of 937 Ormewood avenue, S. E., driver of the buggy, was admitted to the hospital, Mary Elizabeth Davis, 27, of 325 Georgia avenue, S. E., a passenger in the buggy, and Mary Katherine Carroll, 25, of 1204 Clermont, Decatur, who was riding in the auto, were treated and dismissed.

According to DeKalb county police, the auto, driven by L. L. Cacciabado, a soldier from Camp Gordon, Augusta, struck the buggy from behind.

9 Glass Firms Convicted in Anti-Trust Case

61 Individuals Also Found Guilty in Federal Court.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Nine companies and 61 individuals in the glass container industry today were found guilty in U. S. district court of violating the Sherman anti-trust act. Judge Frank L. Kloebe, smashing what he described as a 26-year-old patent monopoly, issued injunctions against all defendants in the civil action.

They thereby were restrained from engaging in practices which he said had allowed an unlawful control of the glass container industry. Corporate defendants were enjoined from holding stock in any other concern in the industry and there is no w-u-in. The left eye is generally affected by embolus, either eye by thrombus. If neglected for a few days, degeneration of the retina occurs and at the end of a few weeks atrophy of the nerve fiber and ganglion cells layers is complete. There is sudden complete blindness—even perception of light is lost.

Thrombosis of the central vein may affect the trunk or merely one of its branches. The former is infrequent, the latter the more common. When the trunk of the vein is blocked, vision is at once much impaired and sight is soon lost. When a branch only is occluded, there is some reduction in central vision and loss of a sector of the field corresponding to the affected area.

Thrombosis occurs generally in elderly persons suffering from cardiac disease or arteriosclerosis, often with persons with nephritis or diabetes or hypertension. It may, however, occur in younger individuals in the course of febrile affections such as influenza or plebitis.

Radio, Stage Star Falls To Death From Hotel

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Before the eyes of diners on the terrace of a Central Park hotel, Linda Lee, pretty radio and stage star, fell to her death from the 7th floor of an apartment house last night shortly before she and her husband were planning to go to the movies.

Police said they found nothing to indicate the fall was other than accidental. The 27-year-old actress was clad in lounging pajamas and red slippers.

Roosevelt Drafting Ceiling on Wages and Farm Products

ACTION AT DIEPPE—Soldiers and sailors (foreground) watch an Allied destroyer throw a protective smoke screen about small craft from which the Commandos are landing. The picture was made just off the Nazi-occupied French coast by a photographer aboard an Allied vessel. Allied forces, with Americans participating, carried out a nine-hour daylight raid on the Nazi coastal stronghold.

New Legislation Not Necessary, F. D. R. Asserts

Message to Congress To Report Explanation of Action.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—After long study of the cost of living problem, President Roosevelt indicated today he was just about ready to unfold a new anti-inflation plan involving restrictions on wages and farm prices.

The program will be announced soon, he told a press conference, probably through a speech to the country and a simultaneous message to congress. He said at the same time he did not believe any new legislation would be necessary, leaving the impression the message to congress would be merely a report and an explanation of action he plans to take in his executive capacity.

Tough Sacrifices. In a long discussion of the cost of living situation—he prefers that term to inflation—Mr. Roosevelt hinted strongly the forthcoming action would be designed to limit both wage increases and the price of farm products.

The President mentioned tough sacrifices the American people must expect. His new plan has not been put into final form, he said, but he would give reporters a sort of idea for a story.

The theme of this was that factory workers and farmers were interdependent—that if farm prices go up, wages must rise, and if wages go up, the farmer must pay more for the things he buys. He thought it would not be fair to impose restrictions on labor and not on agriculture, or vice versa.

Present Level. Mr. Roosevelt ventured the thought that wages should be stabilized at essentially the present level, but with the qualification that the matter should be considered from a common-sense viewpoint. If food prices rise 30 per cent, he did not think the wage scale should be held down, and if food costs are held where they are now he did not think labor should have any advantages.

The 30 per cent figure was mentioned recently by Price Administrator Henderson as the extent to which prices of foods not covered by ceilings would rise next year unless action were taken to strengthen the controls over farm prices.

Mr. Roosevelt did not give a definite date for announcing the new program, but said with a chuckle that it would be before, or after Labor Day. He emphasized time was a factor in dealing with the problem and indicated this was at least one reason for foregoing new legislation.

City Welder Job Remains Unfilled

Because no Atlanta residents applied for the city's $198-per-month boilermaker-welder job, the city personnel board yesterday voted to waive the requirement that the applicant must be a resident and a taxpayer.

The board instructed Stafford Graydon, personnel director, to employ a boilermaker and welder, and quick, whether he lives in Atlanta or not. The board also authorized the employment of an assistant city mechanical engineer for the smoke abatement bureau.

Many bad fires, he pointed out. Attention, he said, has been focused on wardens and policemen but more will be given fire watchers henceforth.

Air raid wardens have not, apparently, received anything near like uniform instructions, Phillips declared.

From their reports on incidents in the blackout, it was evident they had been instructed differently on what to do.

They are going to eliminate the general instructors, the ones who have been teaching all phases of civilian defense, he said. "We will have specialists, each instructor an expert on one phase and their instructions will be uniform for all wardens and CD workers."

Meeting To Be Called. He said he thought a meeting of all air raid wardens will be called soon to clear up some confusion resulting from conflicting instructions.

This confusion was more evident in their reports to control center, Phillips said.

"The reports on the whole were poor," he asserted, adding that there were shining exceptions. Many wardens made excellent reports, full, clear, concise and complete.

Phillips reiterated he was vastly pleased with the big practice blackout, despite the criticisms he cited—which to him mean only that every effort will be made to do better next time.

"The workers and the people were swell," he said.

Two Dairymen Secret 'Raider Battalion' Active In Solomons, Marines Disclose

City Inspectors Roam Streets Hunting Banned Dairymen.

Two dairymen charged with violation of the city's sanitary milk ordinance are scheduled to face trial at 8:30 o'clock this morning before Recorder W. Callaway.

They are Fred Parker, operator of the High Rock Dairy, and G. F. Leath, operator of the Walnut Grove Dairy.

Cases were made against them yesterday morning by milk inspectors after they had been ordered by city council's sanitary committee to cease selling milk in Atlanta.

E. K. Day, chief of the bureau of milk sanitation, asserted they were two of 21 dairymen who had not complied with the sanitation regulations of the city. "Our inspectors will be hunting for other violators until all have been caught or until they meet our requirements, make application for a new permit and have received this permit after having been inspected and approved," Day said.

Maximum fine for violation of the sanitation law is $200, he pointed out.

A large number of dairymen listed as not complying with the sanitation rules and ordered not to sell in this city called on Day at the city hall yesterday. Many of them declared they will meet the requirements immediately.

However, Day said the dairymen have had two and one-half years to meet the requirements, since the milk ordinance was adopted by the mayor and council. "For the safety of milk drinking Atlantans, we must enforce the sanitation laws," Day said. "Nearly every one of the dairymen prohibited from selling here have proper construction but do not comply with the simple rules of cleanliness."

Air Instructor Honeymoon Sleep Spoiled By Army Drill

Civil Service Discusses Rules for Student, Junior Teachers.

New and less rigid qualifications for student and junior instructors in the Army Air Forces' technical schools and Navy aviation service schools were announced yesterday by the Civil Service Commission.

Student instructors will receive $1,620 a year, the announcement said, while junior instructors will draw $2,000 a year.

The student instructors will be trained from three to six months in radio operating, engineering and airplane mechanics and then will be assigned to an Army or Navy school.

They can qualify through completion of one year in college, through a Civil Aeronautics Administration ground instructor's certificate, airplane mechanic or airplane engine mechanic certificate, one year of training as airplane mechanic, aircraft or automobile mechanic, sheet metal worker, welder, machinist, photographer, camera repairman, radio operator, radio engineer, possession of a commercial or amateur radio operator's license or upon completion of six months' training in a radio school or war work training.

Interested persons may file applications with the secretary of the Civil Service Board at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. Full information may be obtained at the Civil Service Board in the post office here or at any first or second-class post office over the state.

Phillips Issues Critique on Area Blackout

incendiary bombs—and the whole area isn't more than 1,500 or 2,000 trained fire watchers at present!

"Those are some of the things we must do that the blackout Monday showed us," said Phillips.

"Another thing is that we must provide some way for allowing official emergency cars and ambulances to move through the city anywhere without being stopped once or twice every block."

Next Blackout Surprise. "And another thing: In the next blackout we have, the people must stay indoors and off the streets and off their porches. The next blackout will come as a surprise and it will be on a dark night. The people must stay in and not go out to see the show."

But Phillips didn't want to give the impression he didn't think the blackout Monday night by the light of the moon was a swell one. He says it surpassed his expectation. It was fine. It functioned smoothly in most instances, and naturally Phillips' eye took in those as well as the few hitches.

He had praise for the Red Cross, the AWWF, the medical service units, all the control center workers who really worked, but he pointed out that many things still must be learned by the air raid wardens.

"Some of them gave wrong addresses, some asked the operators questions, some of them spoke so indistinctly the operators couldn't tell what they meant, some of them gave inadequate information about the incidents."

Let Wives Aid. "Others went off and did not tell their wives what to do if CD headquarters called their number. The wardens should give their wives a list of the other persons who are to be called when the control center sends a message."

Here Phillips gave a little illustration as to how this latter should be done.

"He should say, 'Look here, honey! This is a list of the wardens to be called when a message comes for me from the control center. I'm not here. She'll be glad to do it, I know. Why, the women actually are making better wardens than a lot of the men."

"In some blocks where they have women air raid wardens, they were out patrolling while men lolled about on the porches watching the blackout," he asserted.

Phillips said too many air raid wardens forgot to stop directing traffic after they stopped all cars when the signal came.

"After they stop the cars, they should return to their patrolling and let the police handle traffic," he said.

The director, tired and weary yesterday after the strain of the blackout, said he will devise some method for assuring the continuous passage of emergency cars through the streets before the next blackout.

He had heard reports of ambulances hurrying to a theoretical bombing which were ordered to the curb and completely stopped by police. He had heard of "incident officers" and other emergency cars stopped as many as 18 or 20 times in as many blocks. On every corner and often in the middle of the block, too.

Luminous Paint. "Perhaps we will devise a luminous paint identification for the emergency cars, as they have done in England, or we may work out a method as was used successfully in East Point."

In East Point, the cars were stopped only once. The policeman waved his flash to the officer on the next corner as the car proceeded and this policeman did the same to the next. In this way, the

Cop, Home Guard Shoot Out Lights

A policeman and a member of the Home Guard went gunning for a couple of street lights which refused to go out for the blackout Monday night, police reports show.

Sergeant Lovett, of the Home Guard unit 167 reported he used a shotgun to douse a white-way light at Pryor and Decatur streets that kept going after the warning sirens sounded. Policemen C. E. Hale shot out another with his pistol on Wall street, near Pryor.

These two lights just didn't go out when the city light switch was pulled. Technicians blamed a short circuit for the failure.

WASHING UP—Shortly after his arrival at an Egyptian desert camp, Corporal Walters, an American tank gunner, starts getting used to washing with as little water as possible. U. S. tank crews now are fighting side by side with British tank regiments in the western desert.

U. S. or Egypt, American Boys Toughen for Battle in Desert

'Complimentary' Smokes 25 Million Acres Give Plenty Room for Shooting.

By EDWARD KENNEDY.

AT A UNITED STATES ARMY CAMP IN THE EGYPTIAN DESERT, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Sand flies, desert sores, the high price of beer—these are only routine complaints of the United States troops here.

What has them burned up more than the desert sun is the cigarette situation. Their reason: They have to pay 22 cents a pack for cigarettes marked "Smokes for Yanks."

The soldiers are quickly getting accustomed to desert life and are preparing for their part in operations "out in the blue."

"Out in the blue" is the first British expression the Americans have picked up from the troops camped next to them.

The Americans live in ready-made barracks which they brought with them and erected in a few days. Their beds are Egyptian made—heavy wooden frames with rope networks and mattresses. They are clumsy in appearance but very comfortable.

Sand and "Wogs"—white-robed native laborers—are among the chief problems of the troops. The laborers are engaged in construction projects near the camp, and some American soldiers are detailed to "Wog patrols" to deter them from walking off with the whole camp.

The ingenuity of these natives for stealing may be gauged by the fact that in one midwestern camp they took a tank apart and carried off the pieces, which they sold as scrap metal.

A check is made by poking any suspicious bulge in a native's robes as he leaves camp. Anything from a piece of wire to a sack of cement may fall out from under his skirt.

Beer is expensive. There is no canteen yet and the only shop is run by a merchant who charges 30 cents a can for American beer.

"When we go into action there won't be any behind-the-lines berths. The cooks will have to know how to fight just as much as the tank commanders. So we're teaching the cooks and clerks how to handle our weapons as thoroughly as we're training anyone else."

Allied Planes Destroy 13 Jap Fighters, Boat

Gunboat, 2 Transports in Convoy Are Strafed.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Wednesday, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Allied planes destroyed a Japanese gunboat and strafed two Japanese transports in a convoy off the southeast coast of New Guinea yesterday, it was announced today.

(It was not immediately disclosed whether the convoy was en route to reinforce the Japanese counterattack in the Solomon Islands, but this is possible since the attack occurred south of that general area.)

Both fighters and bombers took part in the attack, a communiqué said.

Allied fighters also destroyed 13 Japanese fighter planes on the ground at Buna, on the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea, and bombers dropped eight tons of explosives on Rabaul, Japan's big naval base in New Britain.

The communiqué reported Allied medium bombers raided enemy installations on Timor Island, northwest of Australia, starting fires. The Japanese, for their part, sent two bombers over Darwin, Australia, and dropped some bombs near the airdrome during the night. Damage was negligible.

Artificial Gas Deliveries Will Be Restricted

Cartailment Is Effective After September 1, WPB Rules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The government clamped restrictions today on delivery of artificial gas to new industrial and household consumers, in acting to head off shortages expected this winter when gas will come to increased demand because of the fuel oil shortage.

The War Production Board ruled that no gas may be delivered after September 1 to homes, stores, offices or factories for space-heating unless the heating equipment was installed before September 1, or unless the equipment replaces gas-fuel equipment of the same or larger capacity.

Restrictions on the use of artificial gas for delivery of the fuel to a non-residential user for the operation of any equipment which was not operated prior to that date.

Three exemptions were provided for this clause, however, as follows:

First, where the capacity of the new equipment is less than 150 cubic feet an hour; where the new equipment replaces existing gas equipment of the same or greater capacity; and third, in cases where WPB grants specific approval for delivery of gas to the new equipment.

The restrictions on gas for space-heating provide that deliveries may be made to gas equipment installed up to November 15, provided the equipment was specified in the construction contract, and the foundation of the building was completed before September 1.

Herbert S. Marks, acting chief of the power branch, said he had received reports that persons with oil burners were converting to gas with the erroneous belief that gas would be plentiful.

"Unless conversions to gas are restricted," Marks said, "the increased demands on gas companies will make it impossible for them to continue to render adequate service to war producers."

War Worry Aids Tooth Decay, Dentist Says

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—(AP)—War worry, not war diet, may shove you right into your dentist's chair.

That was the view expressed in an interview today by Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery and new president of the American Dental Association.

As much as any other factor, Dr. Robinson said, systematic disturbances brought on by war nerves may boost the already alarming incidence of dental decay. Soldiers, like civilians, face the possibility of increased tooth trouble, he added.

"It has been demonstrated," he related, "that emotional disturbances tend to build up body poisons and an acidity of the mouth which is conducive to tooth decay."

Maybank Leads Blease by Margin of Only 104 Votes.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Senatorof Burnet R. Maybank, a staunch administration supporter, moved into a featheredge lead over Eugene S. Blease tonight as returns were tabulated from more than half of South Carolina's precincts in today's Democratic primary to nominate a United States senator.

With 1,043 of 1,536 precincts reported, Maybank had 58,321 votes. The unofficial returns showed Blease, 65-year-old former chief justice of the state supreme court who campaigned with a "white supremacy" slogan, only 104 votes behind with 58,217.

The same precincts gave former Governor Olin D. Johnston, seeking the governorship again after a lapse of four years, a substantial lead over Wyndham M. Manning. The vote was Johnston 60,379, Manning 56,235.

Runover Looms In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Former Senator James O. Eastland, 37, who succeeded the late Senator Pat Harrison last year on an interim appointment for 90 days, today piled up a big lead for the Democratic nomination for the full six-year senatorial term, but returns from two-thirds of the state precincts indicated he would have to enter a runoff against Senator Wall Doxey on September 15.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Huge Bombing Armada Over South France

Reds Stage 40-Plane Attack on Finns; RAF Active.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A 40-plane Russian attack on Helsinki and the passage of high-ceiling bombers over Lyon in unoccupied France to the accompaniment of a half hour's antiaircraft fire were reported today along with the RAF announcement of a strong force attack last night on the Rhineland.

London had a daylight air alarm, apparently as a result of a single plane flying over the northern environs.

The single plane dropped bombs at a point in the home counties, causing some damage but no serious injuries, while a few German planes raided the south coast.

One of the latter was shot down. The announced RAF objectives were Frankfurt and Wiesbaden in the Rhineland, where industrial and chemical plants were bombed, and German railroad concentrations in the lowlands, which were crippled again.

The German air forces were described as virtually grounded in the face of the new attacks and informed British sources said the Germans still were suffering from losses and disorganization as a result of the Commando raid on Dieppe last midweek and subsidiary operations against Nazi aerial power.

Although maintaining aerial superiority over western Europe, the RAF paid heavily for the assault on the Frankfurt area, losing 16 bombers out of what was officially described as "strong forces."

It was the heaviest loss in a night bomber operation since the raid on the Mainz area August 11.

Vichy reported a great number of planes passed over Lyon at a height of six miles last night, taking an hour and a half to go by, and that French ground defenses sent up a barrage for a half hour.

There was no verification of the French suspicion that the planes might have been American flying fortresses such as those which recently have raided German-occupied France, and there was no Roman confirmation of the obvious speculation that they might be en route to objectives in northern Italy.

Planes also were over Vichy.

Helsinki Raided.

The Russian raid on the Finnish capital was reported on the Stockholm, Vichy and Finnish radios. The French reported it caused the longest alarm of the year in Helsinki, Stockholm said antiaircraft put up "a colossal barrage of fire," and the Finns said the attackers were driven off by ack-ack after the biggest raid on Helsinki since the summer of 1941.

Helsinki added that five persons were killed, 10 were injured and some buildings were damaged.

Of the RAF's Rhineland attack, the German high command said some civilian casualties and damage resulted at Frankfurt and Mainz, that 16 British planes were shot down (agreeing with the British announcement of losses), and that two British planes were downed on daylight flights over Germany yesterday.

The attack on Frankfurt, 400 miles from London, gave evidence that the long arm of British bombing power is able to reach deeper into Germany as the nights lengthen.

Labor Dictatorship Is Said Approaching

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 25.—(AP) Dr. Gus W. Dyer, professor of economics at Vanderbilt University, said today that "American democracy, unrestrained by the constitution, is rapidly approaching a labor dictatorship in this country."

Dr. Dyer said the supreme court had ceased to function in the manner in which the constitution desired.

U. S. Proposes New 'Tax Bond' for Business

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Treasury asked the Senate Finance Committee today to increase corporation taxes above the record levels previously voted by the house, but proposed to soften the blow by providing for post-war rebates and the establishment of a "nest egg" reserve fund.

In a complicated proposal which left committee members uncertain about its ultimate effect, Randolph Paul, Treasury general counsel, urged that the combined normal and surtaxes, which total 45 per cent in the house approved bill, be raised to 55 per cent and that the 90 per cent tax on excess profits be allowed to stand.

To offset this, however, Paul and other Treasury officials suggested that business firms be permitted to retain 12 per cent of the amount of all taxes due 4 per cent of them for investment in a special type of government bond which they could cash after the war or for retirement of debts contracted before January 1, 1942.

In addition, the fiscal experts proposed that corporations be permitted to set up in a separate fund administered by the Treasury an amount equal to 15 per cent of their net taxable income—a "nest egg" reserve which could be used to make up inventory losses, pay for maintenance repairs because of materials shortages caused by the war program and other specific items.

Chairman George, Democrat, of Georgia, said the Treasury proposals—exclusive of the reserve fund—would provide for an effective rate of taxation of 44 per cent on normal and surtax earnings of corporations and of 79.2 per cent on excess profits.

George said that details of the Treasury's 12 per cent rebate plan were yet to be presented to the committee, but expressed the opinion that a simple tax credit was proposed which would work this way.

A corporation with a liability of $100,000 in federal taxes would simply deduct $12,000, pay $88,000 to the Treasury and either pay old debts with the remainder or invest it in the special bonds. If it paid $10,000 in debts it would be required to buy $2,000 worth of bonds. If it had no debts which would fall within the law's definitions, all $12,000 would go into the bonds.

George said that under the Treasury proposal there would be "practically no strings" on the expenditure by corporations of the money rebated to them after the war. Previously the Treasury had insisted that such rebates must be limited to finance employment-producing expenditures.

George said that details of the Treasury's 12 per cent rebate plan were yet to be presented to the committee, but expressed the opinion that a simple tax credit was proposed which would work this way.

If it paid $10,000 in debts it would be required to buy $2,000 worth of bonds. If it had no debts which would fall within the law's definitions, all $12,000 would go into the bonds.

George said that details of the Treasury's 12 per cent rebate plan were yet to be presented to the committee, but expressed the opinion that a simple tax credit was proposed which would work this way.

Nearer and Nearer

The coming terror that shall be the ultimate portion of Japan in this war which she began, is steadily drawing nearer and nearer to Tokyo and the other cities of the Flowery Kingdom.

The Chinese, fiercely counterattacking in Central China, have retaken 125 miles of the important Chekiang-Kiang railway. More than this, they have driven to within 20 miles of Chuhshien.

Now Chuhshien is the site of an excellent airfield. When, in last May, the Japanese began their Central China campaign one of its main purposes was to take from Chinese possession those points, on or near the coast, which would make excellent take-off places for American bombing planes with Japan proper as the target.

If the Chinese continue their success and take Chuhshien it is probable that, in the future history of the war, there will be told the story of scores of American bombers who, starting from that point, carried their retributive loads of destruction to the home lairs of the treacherous little yellow men.

Meanwhile, on another sector of the wide Japanese zone of war, the United States Marines and naval forces have captured the strategically vital islands of the Solomon group. One step toward the coming annihilation of Japanese dreams of grandiose empire.

The handwriting on the wall is clear to all who can read. It tells of the coming time of tragic payment the Jap must make for his treachery.

Watch Chuhshien and the Chinese. And the American bombers already fighting with the Chinese, as well as those who will make Chuhshien their Shangri-La for many raids upon Tokyo.

Willkie Won't Fail

It was Sir Neville Henderson who penned a book called "Failure of a Mission." The book dealt with his diplomatic days in Germany up to Munich. Now, apparently, the Nazis liked that phrase, "failure of a mission." For that is what they are attempting to do in the case of Wendell Willkie and his proposed trip to the Orient for President Roosevelt.

From Turkey has come news from neutral diplomatic quarters that German propaganda agents in that country were preparing a "welcome Willkie" campaign in fear of the good impression Willkie might make on his mission. They will try to discredit Willkie even before he arrives in that part of the world.

Meanwhile, from China and Russia come reports that Willkie's visit is being eagerly anticipated. The Nazis are right in thinking Willkie will make a good impression. He will. It is safe to bet he will not come back to write a report headed "failure of a mission"—in spite of the burrowing bums of Hitler.

Thumbs Down!

Public opinion is the final arbiter of any action affecting the general public in this country. It is interesting, therefore, to note the result of the Gallup Poll on the attitude of Americans toward the ban on phonograph recordings for radio and other non-private uses imposed by James C. Petrillo.

Three-quarters of those expressing an opinion are unfavorable toward the arbitrary action of the AFL Musicians' Union chief. Only 8 per cent expressed approval.

The same proportion approve the taking of legal action by the government to break Petrillo's hold on the musical talent of the nation.

The musicians will do well to heed the judgment of public opinion. If they do not, then they may be assured the public will find means to take action for them.

Vichy Protests

The Vichy government has protested to the United States government against bombing of objectives in occupied France by our air force.

Of course such a protest from the puppets of Germany means nothing and will, quite properly, be ignored.

It is, however, interesting to note one or two details of the letter of protest. Dealing exclusively with the raid against Rouen by our Flying Fortresses, Vichy complains that "15 soldiers" were killed. Undoubtedly these must have been German soldiers inasmuch as there are no French soldiers in the occupied area of France. The Germans see to that. And why Vichy should feel called upon to protest the killing of German soldiers when this country is at war with Germany provides one of those enigmas not uncommon when puppets dance to the pull upon their strings by the controlling master.

It is also interesting to note that when, after five days delay, the alleged text of the note was released to newspapers in unoccupied France, two significant changes had been made. In the original note reference was made to "American aviators." This had been changed to "Anglo-Saxon aviators." And the word "German" had been inserted in the mention of the fifteen soldiers slain at Rouen.

Truly, a puppet government follows closely the tricky methods of those who dictate its actions.

Nazi "Check-Off"

The Nazi-Quisling regime in Norway has, apparently, adopted the methods so efficiently enforced by our own labor organizations. They have adapted to their own purposes those controversial systems, the "closed shop" and the "check off."

It is in regard to the Norwegian school teachers that the Nazis have used these tricks.

Last year, the Quisling government promulgated an order that all teachers in Norwegian schools must belong to the Laerersamband, which carried with it a pledge that the teacher would teach only Nazi ideas of government and of right to the pupils. This included teaching the young Norwegians to be disloyal to every national heritage of freedom and bringing them up to become new robots for Nazis armies, just as are the youth of Germany.

Hundreds of teachers were arrested and thrown into concentration camps for refusal to sign this Laerersamband pledge.

Now, all schools have been ordered to reopen after the summer recess. What about the teachers? Well, Quisling's government has ruled that every teacher who continues to teach will thereby be considered as automatically belonging to the Laerersamband. No written application for, or confirmation of, membership will be required of the teachers and "dues" will be deducted from the teachers' salaries, whether they wish it or not.

The closed shop and the check-off, that's all.

Who Are "Savages"?

Survivors of a United States ship which had been sunk in the Indian ocean reached the coast of Africa. Watching their boat approach the beach were a score of naked, armed savages. The sailors were worried. The knives these nude men carried looked dangerous.

But the "savages" helped the white men ashore, fed them, taught them how to catch crabs for food and brought chickens and bananas to them.

In Europe, that so-called "civilized" continent, a nation which proclaims itself as the foreordained ruler of all the earth, tortures, persecutes and slays tens of thousands of helpless minorities. That same nation brazenly adopts treachery, the lie and dishonor as part of its arsenal for conquest and steals the food from other peoples while babies die of starvation.

Which is the "savage"? Most of us would prefer shipwreck on the coast of Africa to life within the power of Nazi Germany.

Georgia Editors Say:

CHARACTER CANNOT BE BELITTLED (From The Albany Herald.)
We do not think the opposition to Ellis Arnall is making much progress in its efforts to belittle that gentleman.

The reason for the studied effort is obvious, and is highly complimentary to the man against whom it is directed. The interpretation of it is simply this: The record of the man who is opposing Governor Talmadge is so clean, tributes to his personal character by those who know him best are so cordial, that belittling is the only weapon the opposition can lay hold of.

Ellis Arnall is a man of the highest personal integrity. Citizens of the community where he grew up and is known intimately pay tribute to his blameless life. His ideals are high, his devotion to Georgia is that of a man born and reared and nourished on her soil, and one has but to talk with him for a few minutes to be aware of his integrity.

Character, integrity, ability—these cannot be belittled. The Arnall opposition is finding that out.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

ANTI-ROOSEVELT COMMENT WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—There is something mawkish about the way the Roosevelt haters are making a hero of Big Jim Farley for putting over his candidate in the New York Democratic gubernatorial convention.

Some of the comment from this segment of the press has been as fanciful as anything the country has seen for two years or more.

The Peglers and the Frank Kents, the Dave Lawrences and the Mark Sullivans, who see nothing but evil in anything Mr. Roosevelt does, are saying that the defeat of the President's candidate in New York was a just retribution by the people for his interference in state politics during a time of national peril.

An effort is made to create the impression over the country that for a period of a month before the convention Mr. Roosevelt forgot about the war and everything else to apply himself to the task of defeating the Farley candidate. Nothing is more ridiculous, of course. Aside from a few conferences held with leaders on both sides, the President's only open participation in the fight was an informal remark, made in response to a White House press conference question, that if he had a vote he would cast it for Senator James M. Mead, whom he thus endorsed.

Because of this the Roosevelt haters are hailing the Mead defeat as a major presidential upset. Poor old Big Jim, whose victory was built on an act of treachery, is being blown up as a hero of presidential stature.

This crowd of presidential malingerers, who have guessed wrong on every national election during the past 12 years, are even saying that Farley has politically reconditioned himself at this point where he may be able to successfully challenge the New Deal in 1944. Unless all the present signs are wrong, Farley, who quit the administration in a huff two years ago because Mr. Roosevelt would not stand aside and give him a futile free run at the presidency, will be a two-month hero. After that he will be looked on as the prime goat in the Democratic party.

GIFT TO REPUBLICANS What the erstwhile genial Big Jim has done is to open the way for the Republicans to elect a Governor of New York for the first time in more than two decades. His victory in maneuvering the nomination of State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. amounts to that. Mr. Roosevelt saw it all too late—and tried to prevent it. Farley, working quietly and under cover, rounded up a majority of the delegates before anyone knew what he was about.

When the President, trying to salvage the state for the party, stepped into the picture, the damage was already done. The delegates had committed themselves to Farley and it was embarrassing for them to go back on their word.

Bennett seems certain to be defeated because of the action of the American Labor party in putting a third candidate into the field. This organization, made up of left and right-wing labor groups, has polled upwards of 500,000 votes in the past—always supporting the Democratic ticket. No one expects Bennett to be able to overcome the loss of that many votes this year.

Moreover, the Republicans have nominated the greatest vote-getter they have produced in the Empire State in years—Thomas E. Dewey, who ran only 64,000 behind Governor Lehman four years ago.

COLORLESS CANDIDATE At this stage of things, it just doesn't seem in the cards for the Farley candidate to win. In the first place, he is not a New Dealer, which means that he will command only lukewarm support from this source. Again, while acknowledged to be a good man with an efficient public record, Bennett has a rather colorless background which will place him at a disadvantage with the dynamic Dewey.

In a popular primary contest with Senator Mead there is little doubt that Bennett would have been defeated for the nomination by a wide margin. Mead is a proven vote-getter who ran 400,000 above Governor Lehman the last time he was up. But New York does not have the primary system for selecting candidates for Governor. It is done by convention. Jim Farley is a past master at setting up conventions.

Back in the days before he developed a personal grudge against the administration, Farley, heretofore the strongest kind of a party man, would have no more thought of staging a maneuver of the kind than he would of endorsing Hitler. The cold truth of it is that he was guided by a deep personal animus against the President. All because Mr. Roosevelt would not forego a third term and give the king-maker a chance to make himself king.

LIKE AL SMITH He is guilty of the same attitude displayed by former Governor Al Smith in opposing the Roosevelt first nomination after making Mr. Roosevelt Governor of New York. Smith will lose something in contemporary political history for the dog-in-the-manger attitude he showed against his former protégé. Otherwise he might have gone down as one of the biggest men of his day.

Farley stands to suffer a similar fate if Bennett is defeated for the governorship in November. He is being hailed as a hero by the Roosevelt haters right now, but after November he will probably be labeled as the chief goat of the Democratic party.

More of Old Show Business.

Continuing yesterday's dissertation about personal experiences, when very young, in the show business, let's turn today from the subject of burlesque to that of the "Ten, Twent, Thirt" of revered memory.

Every city in those dark, gone days, had a number of legitimate theaters. There would be one or two of the highest class, where the best road attractions appeared.

And where prices of seats ranged from $2 or $3 for the best orchestra, to 25 or 50 cents for the top gallery benches.

Then there were other theaters where companies of lesser distinction played. Where admission prices were not so high and where the appeal was to a cruder and less sophisticated type of audience.

And there was always one which played the more lurid kind of melodrama. "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," sort of stuff.

While the prices of admission might not be exactly ten, twenty and thirty cents, they approximated those figures and the theaters were popularly classified as the "Ten, Twent, Thirt" houses.

"Across the Pacific."

There was a well-known star of these melodramas named Harry Clay Blaney. He had a show called "Across the Pacific," the story of the Spanish-American War and the fighting in the Philippines. Vastly different from the fighting which has been part of this new war.

Harry Clay Blaney brought his company to Toronto to play a week's engagement of this particular performance. A friend suggested that we seek jobs as "supers" with the show. We were both unemployed for the moment. They hired a dozen or more supers for this show. To portray the United States Army. You can make a dozen look like a lot if they march across stage, rush around behind the scenes and march across again—and again—and again.

Seemed like prospect for fun and interesting experience, so I presented myself at the stage door of the theater early Monday morning and was selected out of the motley crew seeking the jobs.

We got 25 cents a performance, but our pay for the first performance went to the head prop man—that was part of his perquisites. As there were twelve performances—two a day for six days—that left our salary for the week at $2.75. Princely sum, isn't it?

They furnished army uniforms that we made fit as best we could by swapping around. Showed us how to put on leggings, and so on and how to carry our rifles. Drilled us in the various appearances we had to make during the progress of the show.

Noise A Plenty.

I don't suppose there ever was a show with more firing of blank cartridges in rifles and pistols and so on, as that. Even had an old-style Gatling machinegun which rat-a-tatted a lot of blank cartridges in the final scene.

After each show the theater was foggy with powder smoke and the smell was something terrific. But the audience loved it.

The final scene was in a block house, where the little handful of Americans were heroically holding out against thousands of foes off-stage. But, of course, the United States Army arrived in the nick of time to rescue the besieged and drive away the foe. All twelve of us arrived and it was my job to vigorously wave a big Stars and Stripes.

We used up a small trunk full of blank cartridge ammunition at every performance.

And there was the embarkation scene on the San Francisco pier. We "troops" marched around the stage a few times. Our numbers were augmented by the company band. Then, in single file, marched up the gangplank to the property troop ship back stage.

The next to the last man in the line was the fellow with the big "A" on his back, waving, all again, carrying that flag. We were last, because both drum and flag were too large to go up the gangplank. Just as the drummer was at the foot of said gangplank, the curtain dropped. The stage hands began to push the "ship" slowly away from the pier. Drummer and I rushed through the wings and climbed "on board" from back-stage. Curtain rose again, with ship slowly moving away, drummer beating merrily and me waving flag for all I was worth, while feminine members of cast frantically waved handkerchiefs from stage in farewell.

One performance, rushing through the wings, I came mighty close to hitting the leading lady in the eye with the tip of my flag staff. I never got a more lurid or emphatic cussin' out in my life. Well, that week was fun for a kid of 19. I'd like to turn back

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Labor Party NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The so-called American Labor party, which has entered a third candidate in the New York gubernatorial campaign, is more European than American, does not represent labor and is not a party but a left-wing annex of the Democratic party with accommodations for a few renegade Republicans, such as Fiorello La Guardia and his little friend, Congressman Vito Marcantonio, who follows the Moscow party line. It claims to have half a million votes, but has been running a bluff for a long time and its actual, showdown strength is not known, but probably will be determined this time. In effect, every vote it polls will be a vote for Thomas E. Dewey, because it is not actually running a candidate for election but trying to beat Jim Farley's candidate on the regular Democratic ticket, John Bennett, the present attorney general.

The so-called party's nominee is Dean Alfange, who is a lower-case, local AFL Landon in the sense that he is very obscure and hasn't a Chinaman's chance and knows it. The candidacy is so futile that the bosses had a hard time finding anyone to go through the motions and Alfange finally was selected by a process duplicating in miniature the scene in the smoke-filled room by which Warren G. Harding was chosen in 1920. This process has been loudly condemned by all left-wingers ever since, even when they were using it themselves.

Not only is the so-called party's political line European but much of its membership is foreign born and unassimilated. It is a mixture of social Democrats and Communists and the two groups fight like cats and dogs all the time and damage their chances by telling many unpleasant truths and many lies about one another. A few years ago Marcantonio, whose district contains a lot of Italians and Puerto Ricans and a high crime rate, put investigators on the trail of one of his right-wing opponents in an effort to get him, but the attempt apparently came to nothing. His investigation was a form of labor spying such as Senator Bob La Follette probably would condemn as un-American in the case of an average American employer.

Strange Membership

The keynote speech of Dr. George S. Counts to the meeting which ratified the selection of Alfange said the so-called party was "the last bastion of the New Deal in New York state," and there was more truth than poetry in that, if you are careful of your definition of New Dealism. The party orators and writers will try to make New Deal mean honesty, democracy and social progress, but the New Dealism which actually was repudiated by Jim Farley's Democratic party was the attempt to make over the American system of government into a confused and formless socialism and to disguise ambition for power as pure idealism. In that sense the keynote speech wasn't far wrong in saying that the so-called American Labor party, which is a complete misnomer, was the last bastion of the New Deal in the state. In that sense, also, the keynote speech was correct in saying that Jim Farley's Democratic party in the state had deliberately abandoned the principles of the New Deal.

Farley has been fed up to the neck on New Dealism and its ethics and personalities for a long time and people who are close enough to Bennett to speak for him don't mind saying that he is no New Dealer and never was one.

Helping Dewey The New Deal people probably have figured that it will be worth while to lose the governorship of New York for at least one term if by that sacrifice they can stick Farley with a defeat and discredit him for 1944. Certainly they are doing their best for Dewey, because no Republican will vote for Alfange, although some New Dealers will.

The membership of the so-called Labor Party includes quite a lot of workers in the garment trades whose union leaders have been branching out as political leaders, or bosses, with a view to creating a nuisance value in contests between the Democrats and Republicans. But the thing has never been a real party and while its indorsement has had some value, nobody really knows how much. Even in the present case, they lifted the rest of the Democratic, or Farley, ticket bodily, with one other exception, so that, as usual, or almost as usual, they will tag along as a me-too group using Democratic party names and prestige.

But up at the top of the ticket there will be a real test this time and if Farley can lick them and Dewey, they will mean the end of the New Deal in New York and the end of the American Labor party, too, and no fooling.

the clock and do it again. At 19, of course.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Sunday, August 26, 1917:

"Major General Eben Swift, who some time since was announced to be the commanding officer of Camp Gordon, arrived in Atlanta early Saturday morning, and by noon had assumed command of the 82nd division of the national army, with headquarters at Camp Gordon, the effect of which was actually to establish Camp Gordon as a divisional army training camp."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Friday, August 26, 1892:

"From the way matters are now brewing, it is likely that the next great strike will be that of the telegraph operators. The presence of a number of strange operators in Atlanta has been noticed, and the rumor connects it with their organization for business."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MC GILL.

PATIENTLY, CALMLY Let us begin with a part of the speech by Governor Talmadge, made not many months ago, at Albany, Ga. The same speech was published in his newspaper, The Statesman, of the issue of July 2, 1940.

He said, and wrote: "Any doctrine that preaches class hatred in Georgia is a sin of the deepest dye. Any doctrine that preaches prejudice is merely the doctrine of a hypocrite who is trying to hide under a shadow for the purpose of stealing."

"No religious or racial prejudice has any place in a Christian heart."

Now, let us calmly and patiently review the record.

Governor Talmadge himself said that preaching racial hatred was the doctrine of a hypocrite and that of a person hiding under a shadow.

Let us see about the doctrine of hypocrisy:

He has said, and has published in some of his literature, that only the white colleges in Georgia were dropped by the Southern Association and other accrediting agencies.

The Facts—The Negro schools were never members. The Southern Association was, and is, for white schools only. This the Governor knows very well, despite his statements to the contrary.

He has said, and has published in some of his literature, that the other schools in Georgia get along without the accredited approval.

The Facts—Agnes Scott, Emory University, Mercer, Shorter College, Brenau, Wesleyan, Armstrong Junior College, Georgia Military College, Gordon Military College, Junior College of Augusta, Young Harris, Andrew College, of Cuthbert, all are members. A few are on probation until a required number of library books are on hand. Bessie Tift College, LaGrange College and Piedmont College are on the approved list for their training purposes, and are working toward membership. Emory Junior colleges at Valdosta and Oxford were members, but are out for the duration. Membership is highly prized and most desirable.

FACTS OF PICTURE He has had printed some thousands of pictures of members of the Clarke county Selective Service Board members attending a ceremony given the first Negro draftees to leave for the Army. Among those present were B. McWhorter, the famous old Georgia football star, member of the law school faculty, and mayor of Athens; Dan Magill, clerk of the board, and other local members. Present, also, were two officials from state headquarters in Atlanta. This picture is being handed about Georgia and many varied stories told about it—all false. It is called a social equality meeting. It is said that Dr. Cocking was present. And so on.

The Facts—It was a patriotic meeting and a supper requested by National Selective Service headquarters, and the board members attended to make patriotic speeches to the first soldiers to go from the county. The University had no connection with it whatsoever. Dr. Cocking was not present. The white men who were present, including two from Atlanta headquarters, were all well-known native Georgians who were doing their patriotic duty. They sat together and did not mix with the Negroes. There was nothing "social" about it. I would not like to say so to those present. Bob McWhorter might stiff-arm anyone who did.

The list could go on.

What was it the Governor said? "Any doctrine that preaches class hatred in Georgia is a sin of the deepest dye. Any doctrine that preaches prejudice is merely the doctrine of a hypocrite . . . Those are his own words, spoken publicly. I agree with him. It is a hypocritical doctrine."

TEACHERS' SALARIES TO BE SLASHED He is saying every day, and is having published in some of the distorted and false literature he is sending out, at the cost of many thousands of good dollars, that the accrediting of the colleges is meaningless.

The facts—which teachers may have forgot—on August 20, 1941, almost exactly a year ago, Governor Talmadge told his press conference that if the Georgia schools lost their accredited standing, they and the teachers "would be worth just half as much" and that all teachers in the schools would have their salaries slashed 50 per cent. This was published and was carried by the Associated Press, the United Press and the International News Service.

The Governor himself, by his own words, has told the state what sort of a doctrine all this is.

Nobody Will Sit at the Captain's Table If the Ship Itself Goes Down

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Those who have the public ear are likely to regard themselves as molders of public opinion, largely responsible for the public's state of mind.

"The war will end soon," says one, believing it his duty to encourage people and keep them stout of heart.

"The war will be long and hard," says another, believing it his duty to discourage false hopes and prepare the people for sacrifice and hardship.

Both mean well, and either may be rendering a public service, depending upon whether that particular kind of service is needed.

But if there is among us a half-fire prophet, endowed with the gift of shaping the public mind, he can find a more profitable way to employ his talents. The situation cries to Heaven for such service as he can render.

Let him say to one group: "You think the matter of greatest immediate importance is the winning of more advantages and privileges for your underprivileged race; but if this war is lost, you will have fewer advantages and privileges than a $50 plow mule."

Dudley Glass

Once my family possessed—or was possessed by—a spinster fifth cousin once removed—who could have rewritten the birth, marriage and death records of her county and all the neighboring counties in case fire destroyed all the court-houses. She knew who was kin to whom and in what degree and who married whom—and some-times why.

But I think this genealogist would have been at a loss if she had lived another 40 years and had sat in—with her ear trumpet—at a cocktail party discussion an evening or two ago.

The papers had announced the marriage of the widow (not "grass") of a former Atlantan wealth and a roving disposition to a "playboy" who had twice been divorced.

That got the group started on marriages, divorce, alimony, custody of the children, if any, and the intricate connections involved. I had imbibed only one martini—having arrived late—but after listening with rapt attention for 15 minutes I slipped out to the library, chose a copy of Gertrude Stein and sat down to try my mentality on something clear and simple. That discussion of modern relationships had left me far behind, like a one-legged man fleeing a rising flood.

Hollywood divorces and marriages have ceased to become news. It isn't much news even at home.

I have come to the conclusion that the divorce fever strikes hardest at two classes: Those with too much money and society and those with too little of either. The great middle class couples seem to stay pretty well put. One reason, perhaps, is that they can't afford it. It costs a lot to run one household—but I am told it is hopeless to try to support two.

'News Officer.'

It is with pleasure that I note in the news that my friend, Marvin Cox, of the Office of War Information, has an official title somewhat different from those to which I have been accustomed.

When first I ventured into trying to earn a little side money by boosting a nickelodeon picture show—it really raised a diodeion, having raised its admission price in the face of public protest—I was a press agent. Just that. At $3 a week.

There grew up a prejudice against press agents, for which, I wasn't wholly responsible.

So the good ones became publicity representatives. That kind of work, too, so they became public relations counselors. If a chap had a full time job with an office and a secretary he was elected vice president in charge of public contacts.

But I note that Marvin Cox is "regional news officer." That's fine, if he lives up to the title. He's done pretty well, so far.

Newspapers want news. They are eager for news. That's the merchandise they have for sale.

If it is news. Not pure propaganda or what, in the quaint language of the past, city editors called "bushwa." Or something worse.

Mr. Cox told me last week that in his dealings with city, small city and country-town newspapers he was using herculean efforts to boil his stuff down. He realized that a paragraph in the paper was worth 40 pages in the wastebasket.

It is true that a city editor could read those 40 pages and perhaps find a printable paragraph concealed therein. If he had nothing else to do—which he invariably has.

I have known a number of public relations counselors who stayed on the payroll because they could show the boss how many millions of words of grand stuff they had sent out. Perhaps they'd have been severed from the payroll if the boss had asked them to show how much had ever got into print.

Political Leeches.

On several occasions and in several political campaigns I have delighted in attempting to describe the hotel lobby parasites with vast influence and no money to pay for a room.

This time I'll let Ernest Camp, editor of the Walton Tribune, have his say.

"I'd lay a wager that there are more political deadbeats in Atlanta than any other city in the South, and if I were a candidate I wouldn't spend a thin dime to carry Fulton county, because of the two-timers, leeches and screw-balls that infest every political campaign. . . . I got a pretty accurate picture of Fulton county and Georgia politics many years ago when I was associated with the campaign of the late Senator Oscar W. Underwood for President in Georgia. . . . I roomed at the old Kimball House, and after getting to bed in the wee small hours, the grafters would bang on my door the balance of the night, when they hadn't beat me to my room and bed, and this was not infrequent. . . . Yea, mates, politics is a funny game, when it is not a disease, and then the affliction usually lasts for a lifetime."

Divorces—and the Intracacies Which Tangle Up Gossip

SENATE BILL 1312. Dr. Noble Y. Beall, director of the Department of Co-operative Missions with the Negroes, Home Mission Board, Southern Baptist Convention, writes under date of August 18, 1942, to voice approval of Senate Bill 1312, which proposes an appropriation from federal funds of $300,000,000 for public school education in the various states.

with Georgia expected to receive something like $15,000,000. Once again, I am sorry that space does not permit the entire letter, but I hope to quote such passages as will fairly reflect Dr. Beall's opinion.

"Fundamentally, it seems to me the federal government has a perfect right to follow out an appropriation made by it, and is logically responsible for seeing to it that the fund appropriation is used for the specific purpose for which, according to the law governing the appropriation, it is made.

"There are two questions which arise: First, is there a need for a federal appropriation for education in the south? Second, if an appropriation is made, will it be used for the purposes for which it is made?" In answer to the first, I would simply say, yes, there is need for a federal appropriation.

In answer to the second, thus far the appropriations have not been used for the purpose for which they were made. There are abundant proofs to substantiate these statements.

"A recent survey reveals that the average expenditure per child for education in the U. S. is $74.50.

EMPLOYEES OF STATE BUSY 'POLITICKING.'

Editor Constitution: For the past three months men working for the state, has been in and around Monticello claiming to be looking for violators of the cattle law. There are but few cattle dealers in Jasper county. Most of them have their license to operate, the ones who are violating this law are well known to these men, yet there is nothing done about it. So what good are these men doing toward bringing in revenue to our state? Everybody knows they are working in the interest of Governor Talmadge's campaign day and night. Riding in nice automobiles getting all the tires and gas they need, while our people are begging for enough to carry on their needful operation of business.

Many of us have already jacked up our cars, no tires to go on. They are cooperating with our government, trying to help win this war, while Mr. Talmadge is using his employees all over Georgia politicking for him.

Nearly every day you see other men riding and working for Governor Talmadge, no one knows their business, they claim to be working for the state. Our people are not fooled, they know it's their job to work for the Governor or lose their jobs.

Such as this is fast destroying the Governor's power, people resent such methods as this to perpetuate a man in office. Just think how many more old people this would add to the pension roll if all the cost of operating these cars getting all the tires and gas they need, while our people are begging for enough to carry on their needful operation of business.

Gallup Poll Finds:

Petrillo Ban Voted Outrageous

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 25.—If James C. Petrillo hopes to convince the public of the justness of his ban on phonograph recordings for radio and other non-private use, he faces a battle of terrific odds.

That ruling, and his ban on broadcasts by amateur musical groups such as the Interlochen High school orchestra, meets with disfavor among the majority of voters interviewed in a true cross-section survey of American opinion.

For every person who approves the action of the musicians' union chief on the ground that union musicians deserve such protection, nine disapprove it as "entirely too high handed" or even as "outrageous."

All persons in the survey who have heard or read about Petrillo's action, were asked to give their views in response to the following open question: "What is your opinion of Mr. Petrillo's rulings?"

When analyzed, the results showed the following division of sentiment:

Favorable	8%
Unfavorable	75%
No Opinion	17%

Legal Action Favored.

With majority opinion unfavorable to Petrillo in this case, it is hardly surprising to find a substantial vote in favor of government action to remove the Petrillo ban.

Voters were asked: "Do you approve or disapprove of the government taking legal action to stop Petrillo?"

The result is:

Approve	73%
Disapprove	12%
Undecided	15%

The federal government has instituted an anti-trust suit against the Petrillo union.

Masons Name Dr. W. F. Wells To High Post

Atlanta Physician First Georgian Ever to Hold Position.

Dr. W. Frank Wells, well known Atlanta physician, yesterday was elected to the highest office of the General Grand Council of Royal Arch and Select Masters of the United States, meeting this week in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dr. Wells is the first Georgian to hold the title of "Most Puissant General Grand Master of the General Grand Council of the United States of America." This is one of the highest honors in Freemasonry.

A background of unusual Masonic history marks Dr. Wells' career. He has been at the head of all the subordinate bodies of York Rite Masonry. In 1927 he was Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons of Georgia.

In 1933 Dr. Wells was grand master of the Grand Council of Georgia, a prerequisite for membership in the national body he now heads. In the same year he was elected, due to his prominence in Georgia Masonry, to the first step in line for his present position.

He is at present the Deputy Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templars of Georgia. A thirty-second degree Mason, Dr. Wells is also a Shriner.

Born in Clayton county in 1884, Dr. Wells attended the Atlanta School of Medicine, graduating in 1911. An eminent surgeon, he was selected a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1932.

He was married to Miss Brooksie Stilwell, of Montezuma, Ga., in 1911. They have four children, and now reside in Hapeville.

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

EPISODES IN GEORGIA HISTORY - NO. 12

Surgery without pain began as a parlor game!

MORE THAN a century ago "ether frolic" was among the parlor games that provided entertainment at parties. It was a trick of sprinkling sulphuric ether on handkerchiefs and inhaling it, with unusual and frequently amusing results. Dr. Crawford W. Long, a graduate of the University of Georgia and of the Medical College at University of Pennsylvania, used to take part in these entertaining antics. Once he noticed that while under the fumes' influence several bruises he had received from minor injuries caused him no pain. Others confirmed his experience.

On March 30, 1842, a friend, James Venable, came to Dr. Long with a tumor on his neck. Before operating, the Doctor administered ether to the patient. Afterwards, Venable declared that he had felt no pain. This was the first recorded case of an anesthetic successfully used. Dr. Long spread the joyful news among his professional associates. Others tried to take credit for the discovery. But Dr. Long's work was recognized by the American Medical Association and his place in medical history as the discoverer of painless surgery remained undisputed. Talmadge To Get 20 Arnall Questions At Bainbridge

By LAMAR Q. BALL
Constitution Staff Writer.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Aug. 25.—The first direct challenge of Georgia's gubernatorial campaign was issued in Bainbridge tonight by Ellis Arnall, who chose an arena where Governor Talmadge follows him within 24 hours.

From the platforms where the two candidates have been speaking in cities and towns up and down and across the breadth of Georgia, questions have been hurled to an opponent who wasn't there.

Tonight at Bainbridge, Arnall invited Talmadge to step out from behind his ambush of fake issues and answer 20 direct questions.

Arnall was here tonight, Talmadge will be here tomorrow afternoon, so Arnall left with the citizens of Bainbridge a list of 20 questions he wants Talmadge to answer.

Arnall Questions.

1. Do you still believe that old pensioners should be forced to work or be supported by their children as you said when you vetoed the old pension law?
2. Do you still believe that a workingman is worth only 50 cents a day?
3. Do you still think that the boys who were in the CCC camps were bums and loafers?
4. Are you still opposed to our all-out war efforts as you were when you vetoed the defense bills passed by the 1941 legislature?
5. Are you still opposed to educational advancement for our boys and girls as you were when you vetoed the seven-month school law and the free school book bill?
6. Why don't you use the new state office building for the storage of cotton, corn and fodder as you said?

In Leesburg and in Bainbridge Arnall emphasized this program for state development. On his plan to free the school system from political control, Arnall said: "We must not permit political interference to wreck our schools and universities and to place our teachers and our children under persecution. Talmadge Hit For Attacks On Administration

More Than a Political Campaign, Senator Coxon Asserts.

Speaking in behalf of Ellis Arnall for Governor, Senator Helen Williams Coxon, of the second Georgia district, last night attacked Governor Talmadge for "taking back-handed licks at the national administration" and usurping legislative powers of the state.

"This is more than a political campaign," Senator Coxon declared in an address over radio station WSB. "This is a crusade to return to Democratic principles, to restore the government to the people, to return authority back to the people and their chosen representatives."

Time Has Come.

"The time has come when, if we are to uphold our Democratic form of government, we must go back to the very basis of our national and state constitutions. We have come to the time when our executive department has encroached upon our legislative department until the will of the people no longer speaks through the representatives of the legislative body of the state is now taken over by the chief executive whenever it will further his political self."

In the fall of 1940, at the direction of President Roosevelt, War Department officials, and the Department of Justice, Senator Coxon introduced three bills in the state senate that would allow State Guardsmen to cross state lines, she said. These bills, she said, were introduced only to be vetoed by the Governor.

Arnall Hailed.

"This was just another back-handed lick at the administration," she said. "You and I know that the animosity which Talmadge held towards the administration in Washington has not changed. If for no other reason, this condition is sufficient cause for his defeat."

Senator Coxon hailed Arnall as a ray of hope and a gleam of light in the darkness of the day. She said she believed that the University of Georgia School of Education, which was ousted by a revamped Board of Regents after Talmadge accused him of advocating racial co-education, a charge Coxon denied.

Talmadge Fails To Keep Speech Date

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MONROE, Ga., Aug. 25.—Talmadge campaign managers worked for weeks to build up an audience for an appearance here this afternoon and several hundred citizens responded from Walton, Barrow and Oconee counties.

They gathered early at the Walton county courthouse, but the speaker failed to appear, and the hours and no Talmadge showed up. T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus, showed up to speak in behalf of the Governor.

Talmadge, it seems, had another engagement in Macon last night. But his supporters in Walton, Barrow and Oconee counties could not help lamenting the fact that Talmadge was supposed to speak in Monroe at around 4 o'clock and was not later.

Second Blackout; Moon Is Eclipsed

Atlantians had another blackout last night—the second in a row. The earth's shadow started cutting across the moon at 9:02 o'clock and by 11:01 a total eclipse was in progress. It lasted until 2:38 this morning, and the moon was back to normal at 2:34.

Weatherman Glen Jefferson said total eclipse of the moon is not a rare occurrence.

Peanut Loading Rates Changed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(P) The Office of Price Administration today increased the maximum charge for loading peanuts into and out of warehouses operating under contracts with agencies designated by the Agricultural Department from 50 cents a ton to 75 cents a ton.

The OPA said it was the first adjustment since 1937 and largely represented increased labor costs between then and March 1942, which were not adequately reflected in March prices.

Giant Cargo Planes May Be Built of Wood

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—(P)—Giant cargo planes which Henry J. Kaiser plans to build in his west coast shipyards may be built of wood, Airplane Designer Howard Hughes said today.

"Up to this time all large planes have been built of metal," said Hughes, partner of Kaiser in the contemplated production, "therefore most aeronautical engineers probably would throw their hands in the air at the thought of building the largest plane of all from wood. However, I am convinced it is practical."

Gas Rationing For All Urged By Talmadge

Will Hold Down Taxes If Elected, Governor Says at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 25.—(P)—Governor Talmadge declared tonight that if he is re-elected "I am going to Washington and ask for universal rationing (of gasoline) all over the United States."

The Governor in a campaign speech here asserted: "I don't think the rationing of tires and gasoline in any one section of the country where it so disrupts business is for the best interest of the government."

Talmadge also said, "If elected I'll hold down taxes so you will be able to buy bonds and pay federal taxes to prosecute the war, and that is the only honest statement that a candidate for Governor can make."

He reviewed his financial record as Governor, renewed criticisms of newspapers and magazines, and the dismissal of Dean Walter Cocking of the University of Georgia School of Education. Cocking was ousted by a revamped Board of Regents after Talmadge accused him of advocating racial co-education, a charge Cocking denied.

Talmadge Fails To Keep Speech Date

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MONROE, Ga., Aug. 25.—Talmadge campaign managers worked for weeks to build up an audience for an appearance here this afternoon and several hundred citizens responded from Walton, Barrow and Oconee counties.

They gathered early at the Walton county courthouse, but the speaker failed to appear, and the hours and no Talmadge showed up. T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus, showed up to speak in behalf of the Governor.

Talmadge, it seems, had another engagement in Macon last night. But his supporters in Walton, Barrow and Oconee counties could not help lamenting the fact that Talmadge was supposed to speak in Monroe at around 4 o'clock and was not later.

Second Blackout; Moon Is Eclipsed

Atlantians had another blackout last night—the second in a row. The earth's shadow started cutting across the moon at 9:02 o'clock and by 11:01 a total eclipse was in progress. It lasted until 2:38 this morning, and the moon was back to normal at 2:34.

Weatherman Glen Jefferson said total eclipse of the moon is not a rare occurrence.

Peanut Loading Rates Changed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(P) The Office of Price Administration today increased the maximum charge for loading peanuts into and out of warehouses operating under contracts with agencies designated by the Agricultural Department from 50 cents a ton to 75 cents a ton.

The OPA said it was the first adjustment since 1937 and largely represented increased labor costs between then and March 1942, which were not adequately reflected in March prices.

Atlantan Held In Slaying of His Son-in-Law

A. H. Clay Fatally Shot on Porch of P. H. Sanders.

Following his wife to the home of her parents, A. H. Clay, 44, theater electrician, was shot and killed late last night while on the porch of his father-in-law's home at 879 Highland avenue, N. E., police reports showed.

P. H. Sanders, father of Mrs. Clay, told City Detectives W. S. Acree and P. H. Beasley that Clay and his wife moved yesterday afternoon from their former home at 934 Highland terrace, N. E., to an Elmore drive address.

Late in the afternoon, Sanders said, Mrs. Clay came to his home. Some time later, he said, Clay came to the home and attempted to unfasten a locked screen door. Detective Acree reported, stating that Clay was trying to force the door open. Sanders, the officer said, claimed that Clay and Mrs. Clay quarreled during the afternoon, and that Mrs. Clay came to the home of her parents after the quarrel.

Clay was formerly employed as an electrician at the Paramount theater, while Sanders is listed in the city directory as an automobile salesman.

Pending completion of a coroner's investigation, Sanders was taken into custody by the detectives, while the body of Clay was removed to the chapel of Harry G. Poole.

Clower Asks Talmadge To Probe Redwine

Assistant Attorney General Speaks on Behalf of Arnall.

ROME, Ga., Aug. 25.—(P)—Assistant Attorney General E. J. (Sandy) Clower announced tonight he has been sworn in as a lieutenant in the United States Navy and is awaiting call to active duty.

Clower, in a radio address in behalf of gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General Ellis Arnall, called on Governor Eugene Talmadge "to direct and authorize the attorney general" to institute an investigation into the sale of asphalt to the state by Charles Redwine, Talmadge's campaign manager.

Clower, who served as an assistant attorney general under Attorney General Ellis Arnall, whose candidacy for Governor he was supporting in his address, declared: "In recent days in the press you have seen what may, to you, have seemed a bold reply to Redwine to investigate his sales of asphalt to the state."

Clower called attention to criticism of Redwine by Arnall and his declaration that an investigation should be made. He said that he was elected Governor, and Redwine's reply inviting an immediate investigation. Clower said the attorney general lacked power to initiate an investigation unless so directed by the Governor.

Clower said that his "motives in making this speech will probably be impugned by the opposition" on the ground he wants to hold his job. "The answer to that is this: Sandy Clower now has a job with Uncle Sam. On July 15, 1942, I was sworn in as a lieutenant in the United States Navy and am now awaiting active duty orders to be of service to my country."

'Big Steel' Wages Raised by Order

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(P)—The War Labor Board today voted a 5 1/2-cent hourly increase for 250,000 employees of five U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiaries and made it retroactive to February 15.

The board also ordered maintenance of union membership, the check-off of union dues and a daily minimum wage guarantee. All provisions are identical with those voted in the "Little Steel" case six weeks ago.

The board reached its decision on the amount of the wage increase and daily guarantee by a unanimous vote.

The retroactive feature and the union security provisions were adopted by an 8-4 vote, the employer members dissenting.

4 Counties Get Vote Increase And 4 Are Cut

Jackson Outballed Glynn But Power Is Reversed.

Glynn county will have twice as much say in the outcome of the September 9 primary as it had two years ago while Jackson county will have only half as much.

Yet, in the 1940 primary, only 1,868 votes were cast in the governor's race in Glynn county compared to 3,313 in Jackson county. Similar situations may be found in some of the other counties, whose unit vote was changed by the last legislature in accordance with population shifts revealed by the 1940 census.

Four counties—Coffee, Glynn, Upson and Whitfield—will have four unit votes this year instead of two. Four others—Brooks, Dodge, Jackson and Walton—will have two instead of four.

Each county has twice as many unit votes as it has representatives in the legislature. The number of representatives is determined on the basis of population, being adjusted every 10 years to conform to census figures.

The eight most populous counties have three representatives each, or six unit votes. The 30 counties with the next largest population have two representatives each, or four unit votes. The rest of the counties have one representative and two unit votes.

The total vote cast for governor in 1940 in the counties other than Glynn that had had their unit vote doubled was: Coffee 2,191; Upson 2,598 and Whitfield 3,990.

Votes cast in counties that have had their unit vote halved, besides Jackson, were: Brooks, 1,858; Dodge, 2,309, and Walton, 2,849.

The four counties whose unit vote will be doubled this year cast 10,645 votes in the governor's race in 1940 while the four counties whose unit vote will be halved cast 10,300 votes.

Reich Agent, Rev. Molzahn, Given 10 Years

Pastor Convicted of Conspiring To Violate Espionage Act.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Rev. Kurt E. B. Molzahn, Philadelphia pastor who was convicted of conspiring to violate the espionage act by aiding an attempt to deliver military secrets to the Axis, was sentenced today to spend 10 years in federal prison. The term imposed by Federal Judge J. Joseph Smith was only half as long as the prosecution recommended, but lawyers for the 47-year-old pastor of Zion's Lutheran church had pleaded that a one-year term would be "entirely adequate" punishment. A few minutes after the sentence there was a tearful parting in the United States marshal's office between Molzahn, convicted by a jury last Friday, and his attractive, 37-year-old wife who had stood beside him throughout the four-week-long trial and testified in his defense. Mrs. Molzahn broke down when her husband was led away. Prosecutor Thomas J. Dodd Jr. said Molzahn, a former German cavalry officer, conspired while "clothed in the raiment of a great religious institution." Dodd asked for the maximum penalty of 20 years. Molzahn's codefendants and the sentences they received were: Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, 36, former national head of the German American Bund, 15 years; Dr. Wolfgang Ebelt, 43, El Paso, Texas, physician, seven years; and Dr. Otto Willmet, 37, Chicago Bund leader, and Anastase A. Vonsiatky, 44, of Thompson, Russian Fascist leader, five years each. Molzahn was accused of helping Kunze to get a passport with which to travel abroad, of permitting Kunze to use his Philadelphia parsonage as a return address for mail and of arranging a meeting between Kunze and Dr. Ebelt who chaperoned the ex-Bund Fuehrer across the border into Mexico last fall.

Congressman Brown Visitor to Athens

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 5.—Congressman Paul Brown, of the tenth district, was a visitor to the Navy Pre-Flight School at the University of Georgia yesterday and paid a number of calls on friends in Athens. He was accompanied on the tour of the Pre-Flight School by Chancellor S. V. Sanford.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

I see the Army wants 125,000 dogs for its signal and patrol outfits. Well, I have the only left-handed bird dog in the unconquered countries.

He is also a bit cross-eyed and his tail is busted. He therefore points on the diagonal. He might come in handy as a lookout for an orange-drink stand.

The government can have him but he is no good for a right-handed owner. He can tangle you up like a professional wrestler with three arms.

The dog's name is Pepperweed Duke, but he doesn't know it. He eats fresh liver only at 59 cents a pound.

He has one defect. He points you instead of the bird.

Severe Cut In Tire Quota Seen for State

Number of Tubes and Recaps Also To Be Reduced Next Month.

A sharp reduction in the tire and tube quotas for Georgia for the month of September was announced yesterday from Washington by Leon Henderson, price administrator. Available for motorists of the state who gain approval from their local ration boards for tires and tubes are 866 new tires, 2,103 class B tires (available only to war workers who qualify under a special provision of the rationing regulations), 8,830 recaps and 6,145 new tubes. For buses and trucks, the following quotas were announced: 5,276 new tires, 8,782 recaps and 7,328 new tubes. In making his announcement, the price administrator declared that only intensified conservation efforts on the part of all motorists will provide a means of meeting essential needs.

Getting The Range at Fort Mac

Speaking of raw recruits, this story is going the rounds at Fort Mac—

A young lieutenant, newly commissioned, was entering the post late at night recently. He neared a sentry who barked at him with a lusty, "Who is there?" "You wouldn't know me," the lieutenant is said to have replied. "I just got here yesterday."

Here's one ex-school teacher who is following the career of one of his former pupils in a big way. Private First Class Ralph D. Owen, at the Fort McPherson Reception Center, used to be principal of Canton High school. There he taught James Jordan, who graduated in 1940.

When Jordan registered for selective service at the Canton school, Owen was the man who registered him.

Last week Private Jordan passed through the Reception Center. You guessed it—his interviewer was none other than his former high school teacher, Private Owen, now employed in the classification section.

Off the Assembly Line

Eli Edward White, of 654 Flat Shoals avenue, S. E., an instructor in the carburetion and electrical department of the general automotive mechanics course, Atlanta Ordnance Motor Base, has been appointed a first lieutenant in the Ordnance Department. A member of the Georgia Rifle & Pistol Association, he was the state rifle champion in 1939-1940.

Private First Class William C. Ozarkuk, of headquarters and headquarters detachment on duty at the post quartermaster as a clerk, is considered the post linguist. He speaks six languages, English, Slavic, Russian, Serbian, Croatian and Ukrainian and writes 'em, too.

First Lieutenant Richard M. Carlisle, post exchange and theater officer, has announced that with the post growing larger and the hair of enlisted men growing longer because of only three barbers on duty at the post barber shop, five additional chairs are being installed.

Master Sergeant E. H. Smith, of headquarters and headquarters detachment, may have used the rhyme, "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers," as inspiration when he planted his pepper patch in the detachment area, but his fondness for the vegetable serves instead.

Newsreel Shows Emory Section

A local newsreel, made recently in the Druids Hills-Emory University section, depicting a cross-section in business and recreational life in this community will be on the screen of the Emory theater today and tomorrow.

Churchgoers, golfers, civilian defense workers, and people engaged in various forms of athletics, who were unaware their picture was being made by the movie camera, will have the opportunity of seeing themselves as others see them on the screen. A sequence made inside Emory University hospital showing doctors and nurses at work will make up a large part of the newsreel. Activities during the recent "whiteout" here also will be filmed.

Girl Sacrifices Her Future By Dating a Married Man

Dear Dixie:

I am a girl 17 years old. About four years ago I met a married man and fell deeply in love with him. I have gone with him since then and he says he loves me very much and can't give me up. Now, here is something else. About five months ago I met another man who has been married but has been separated from his wife two and a half years. Both men know each other and know about our romance.

I love them both but I do not know what to do. I hate to give the married man up and I hate to lose the separated man, and I cannot go with both of them at the same time. I am not sure that the separated man loves me, but he says he likes me very much, and I want to win his love and be true to him. He is 27. Do you think he is too old for me? He believes in a good time and that is why he tells me stories, but I am tired of his untruthful ways. What can I do to make him really care for me. He is a very nice person and I love him very much. Please help me.

PUZZLED.

I think the first thing you better do is to look at this situation from a sane and sensible standpoint, which you certainly have not done so far.

Since you have been going with the married man for four years, what has it gained you? I'll bet that he has not one time suggested leaving his wife so that you two can marry. The past four years are a waste of time to you as far as any benefit to you is concerned. What, may I ask, has the affair with him gained you? What do you think the future holds for you if he continues to live with his wife? Are you going through life as his backstreet wife whom he has to sneak away from his family to meet and enjoy secret love meetings? You are not showing any sense in this at all.

As for the man separated from his wife, he, at least seems the best bet of the two. If he is legally separated from his wife, and you are so in love with him, it seems to me he would be the one for you to concentrate your affections upon. The married man is not giving up his wife for you, so why should you hesitate to let him slip if your heart belongs to someone else? Think of yourself, young lady, and look to the future.

I think what is worrying you more is that you think if you give up the married man you will be missing out on some good times. Good times such as these are well worth missing, and I think it would be a good thing. The sooner you give up the married man, the better chance you will have to win the love and affection of the other man.

Dr. Brady Discusses "Unbidden Guests"

By Dr. William Brady.

A correspondent advises that I have managed to get wood lice, fleas, chiggers, ticks and chiggers all bailed up, in the booklet "Unbidden Guests," dealing with bedbugs, ants, fleas, flies, mosquitoes, cockroaches, cotes, black widow spiders, ringworm, hookworm and other unwelcome parasites.

What I describe as "chiggers" are actually wood ticks, the correspondent says. The correspondent continues:

"Ashamed as I am to say it, I have been infested with these mites for several years. They burrow beneath the skin and lay eggs there, causing an unsightly sore and leaving a bad scar. They're chiggers, sometimes called chigoe or jigger, so small it is hard to see them with the naked eye. I have consulted many doctors but have found nothing to eradicate them. The sores are usually about the ankles. If you can suggest a remedy for the trouble you will confer a great favor on many readers."

I have had scabies (the itch), mosquito bites, bedbug bites, etc., but I have never had any personal experience with flea bites, chiggers, ticks, so I have to defer to the authoritative textbooks on the skin and skin diseases. These authorities ought to hold a convention and agree on what is a chigger. Some of them say a chigger is pulex penetrans, the sand flea (pulex irritans is the common flea). Others describe chiggers as "Chiggers are minute parasites, almost invisible to the naked eye, which get upon the skin and burrow beneath the epidermis, producing inflammatory swellings, usually wheals or papules. The impregnated female alone invades the skin. Anointing the surface with carbolic oil or kerosene relieves the irritation and kills the parasite. Oil of eucalyptus, oil of pennyroyal, menthol, camphor and similar volatile substances offer a certain amount of protection against them."

Another authoritative textbook on dermatology says: "Jigger. The treatment is by extraction of the flea by means of a heated needle, whereby it is destroyed simultaneously. The resulting wound should be dressed antiseptically."

The body of the wood tick swells to nearly pea size after the insect has sucked blood. Apply a drop of turpentine or benzine to the tick and she will retract her head and let go. If brushed off forcibly the head may be left in the skin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Dandruff.

Several years ago I found an article on dandruff in your column, with the recipe for a pomade or ointment, which I had made up and have used at intervals ever since. It absolutely controls dandruff. A long delayed "thank you" for it. (Mrs. J. J. S.)

Answer—The ointment or pomade is more difficult to apply than lotions, but it keeps the me-dicament in contact with the scalp longer. Detailed instructions in pamphlet "Care of the Hair and Control of Dandruff"—for copy send stamped self-addressed envelope.

Canker Sores.

I have had plenty of personal experience and professional experience with canker sores, and have found a light touch of each spot with a crystal of copper sulfate (blue vitriol) held in a tweezer followed immediately by rinsing of the mouth with plenty of water, gives the greatest relief. After this one touch, gently wash mouth several times a day with warm salt water—half teaspoonful in glass.

Retired M. D.

Answer—Thank you, Doctor. Easier for the layman to use is a single daily touch of each spot with Mild Tincture of Iodine on a cotton-wrapped toothpick, and after that a mouthwash of warm boric acid solution many times a day—teaspoonful of boric acid in pint of water. Mild Tincture of Iodine is now official in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, for use as a first disinfectant, etc., being about 2-12 per cent strength.

The Iodine Ration.

Our high school chemistry teacher, a crackjack teacher, used to tell us to read Dr. Brady's health column every day and apply your teachings in our way of living. I have done so now for about 12 years, and my health is excellent. Do you recommend that a healthy person take the iodine ration? (A. M. S.)

Answer—Yes, every man, woman and child should take it. For "Instructions for Taking an Iodine Ration" send stamped envelope bearing your address.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between: March 21-April 19 (ARIES)—The entire day and until 6:30 p. m. favors ordinary and routine matters. This is especially true in connection with communications, correspondence and conferences. After 6:30 p. m. favors social and entertainment fields. April 20-May 20 (TAURUS)—It will be wise to keep an eye on money matters today, for the tendency is towards extravagance and miscalculation. The evening hours and after 9:14 p. m. suggest unusual caution to avoid sharp and severe disappointment. May 21-June 20 (GEMINI)—Previous to 11:20 a. m. you are likely to be stimulated to new accomplishments or undertake something of a larger nature than is usual with you. June 21-July 22 (CANCER)—The influences throughout the day incline towards nervous energy, with a desire to do things quickly, which can go into undue aggression. By being unusually careful and tactful, you can overcome such feelings. July 23-August 22 (LEO)—Unless careful thought is given to your undertakings previous to 12:17 noon you will very likely meet with little co-operation in your plans from others. After 12:18 noon is an excellent time to start new enterprises that have been carefully thought out. August 23-September 22 (VIRGO)—Before 10:51 p. m. favors only the lesser matters of life. The entire day is likely to be filled with influences and bring confusion, uncertainty and indecision. September 23-October 22 (LIBRA)—An excellent day for putting into effect ideas that have been carefully thought out concerning social activities, amusements and artistic endeavors. A good day for seeking favors and contacting superiors. The best period of the day is previous to 2:03 p. m. October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—Before 10:10 a. m. take particular pains to make your motives clear to other people, unless you have a special reason for concealing them. Mystery and confusion may easily creep into affairs started before the hour. November 22-December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Previous to 1:31 p. m. offers particular opportunities for speculative ideas. Between 1:31 p. m. and 5:00 p. m. favors domestic business and financial dealings. You can make the most out of contracts, conferences, journeys and trading.

December 22-January 19 (CAPRICORN)—The entire day until 7:53 p. m. favors a progressive spirit in industrial affairs, finances, education and legal affairs but suggests caution in works around liquids, chemicals and drugs. Hollywood Studios Get Down to Earth In Biographical Films

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—"Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime"—and the subjects for motion pictures.

Had he lived today, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow might have looked over movie marquees and current Hollywood charts and added that last phrase—and he wouldn't have been stretching the truth a little bit.

Actually, it's no longer necessary to be a soldier, statesman or scientist to win unending glory as the hero of a biographical movie. The field is wide open today.

Until a couple of years ago it was the Napoleons, the Lincolns, the Pastors and the Edisons that monopolized the life story department.

Now you may drop into the corner movie and see celluloid glorifications in every calling from saving souls to punching chins.

And, what's more to the point, this widening of the field has turned the biographical film from losing to winning box-office paths.

No movie based on Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln or any other historical hero has done much more for its sponsor than pay back the negative cost. Most have wound up in the red.

Paul Muni's well-remembered "astute" and "Emile Zola" were "class" pictures that brought loud praise to the star, the studio and the industry. But the Warner Brothers' auditor would just as soon forget all about them.

As brilliantly conceived and executed as were the two Thomas A. Editor pictures—boy and man—their box office careers were not a bit impressive.

On the other hand, take a look at the sensational records chalked up by a pair of the newer type of biographies—"Sergeant York" and "The Pride of the Yankees." One was about a mountain boy who became a soldier hero in the first World War. The other dealt with a major league first baseman. "York" was one of the two biggest money-makers of 1941. "Pride of the Yankees" is expected to run with "Mrs. Miniver" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" in 1942.

Small wonder, then, that all movie lots have gone off on a fresh biographical tangent—with a decided leaning toward more diversified subjects.

Mark Twain, who summed up the case for the biographical film years before there were movies by saying, "Truth is stranger than fiction . . . because fiction is obliged to stick to possibilities, truth isn't," himself is the subject of one of the most ambitious Covering the life span of Samuel Clemens from his birth in 1835 to his death in 1910, "The Adventures of Mark Twain" is a rich center cut of Americana.

The veteran Jesse L. Lasky is producing this picture. Irving Rapper is directing and Fredric March starring as Mark Twain. It was Lasky who started the biographical ball rolling at top speed with "Sergeant York." Rapper directed March in an entirely different type of life-story feature, "One Foot in Heaven." That it will be recalled, was the true story of the Rev. William Spence, a Methodist minister.

What York, the soldier, accomplished with rifle and bayonet, George M. Cohan achieved with song writing and dancing. In a movie way, the results were the same. For Cohan's story, wrapped up as "Yankee Doodle Dandy," is one of the current box office hot-shots.

Sports celebrities are right in there with other guests making their marks in the celluloid hall of fame. Errol Flynn, who recently portrayed General Custer, has just finished "Gentleman Jim," the story of a former heavyweight boxing champion, James J. Corbett. "The Pride of the Yankees," of course, is the story of baseball's Lou Gehrig, and provides Gary Cooper with the opportunity for another memorable American portrait. Pat O'Brien really beat Flynn and Cooper to the sports punch when he did the great Knute Rockne in "Knute Rockne—All American."

While the scientists have lost their monopolistic grip, they are not being completely neglected. Cecil B. De Mille's "Story of Dr. Wassell" is the thrilling tale of the doctor-hero who received presidential commendation for his self-sacrificing gallantry in the far Pacific theater of World War II. "Great Without Glory," just finished, with Joel McCrea starred, is the story of Dr. William Morton, the dentist who discovered anesthesia.

In preparation today are many scripts which illustrate the widening trend of the biographical film. Writers are hard at work on the story of George Gershwin, the musical genius who lifted American jazz into the realm of classic. Gershwin's story, like Cohan's, offers the opportunity of wedding music with drama.

And the feminine sex is by no means overlooked in the current swing to life drama. Marilyn Miller and Helen Morgan, who won their fame in musical comedies, are to be depicted. So are the Bronie sisters, Charlotte and Emily, who made their mark in literature.

A Sane Set of Exercises For Before the Baby Comes

By Ida Jean Kain.

There is no set standard for the exercise that can be taken while the baby is on the way. The safest rule to follow is to continue doing the things you are used to doing and not to start anything radically new.

If you didn't take any calisthenics before you started to have a baby, do not begin an exercise program now. But if you have always exercised regularly, a few mild exercises should be beneficial and probably right on through the fourth month.

Whatever you do, get your doctor's permission. Please do not be all right for you to go ahead and exercise. It is all right for you only if he says it is. He must tell you how much exercise you can take and for how long.

The main thing to bear in mind is not to keep on exercising to the point of fatigue. It's moderation for you. That goes for exercise of any kind—working, walking, sports, dancing or calisthenics.

Even walking, the perfect exercise at this time, must be geared to your strength. It is usually considered better to walk a moderate distance of one or two miles twice a day rather than to walk a greater distance at one stretch. It is especially important to wear medium to low heels with a broad base for walking. And you carry your weight best by pointing your toes straight ahead, not toeing out. Your girdle should be for support only—not to conceal. The same applies to your brassiere. An uplift bra will give support and help to prevent undue stretching of the skin.

But to get back to exercise. If you are used to exercising and your doctor gives his permission, here are some mild ones:

1. Lie on back on floor, knees bent and feet on the floor. Bend alternate knees toward chest. Always keep one foot on floor to prevent strain.
2. Lie on side, legs straight down. Slowly raise top leg up from hip, lower. Repeat three to five times, rest, and do same exercise on other side.
3. Lie on back on floor with knees bent and feet on floor. Very slowly raise hips off floor until you are in a straight line from knees to chest. Hold for a second, and lower hips to floor. Rest and repeat five times.

Do these exercises slowly and without tension and relax between each exercise. Rest afterwards, warmly covered.

Mrs. Wilmer Moore Receives Heart-Warming Tributes

• • • MRS. WILMER MOORE is one of those beloved persons whose unselfishness is reflected in the sunshine she spreads by her cheerful personality and good deeds among people in all walks of life. Recently she received two letters from Allied countries across the seas, both of them beautiful and heart-warming tributes to her tireless devotion to others.

One of these letters is from Private Henry Freedman, of Verona, N. J., the same city where Mrs. Moore's daughter, Jacqueline Moore (Mrs. Fred) Fry, resides with her husband and young children, Frank, Helen Cornelia and Fred Jr. Private Freedman is now on foreign duty, and his letter, which Sally Forth quotes, explains itself.

"Hello Grandmother Moore, I don't know whether you'll be able to remember first who this is, for it has been quite some time since I last saw you. But maybe if I help you recall first who it is that is writing to you it will be writing to you it might help."

"When you used to visit Mrs. Fry your daughter in Verona, New Jersey, I used to deliver the groceries from the delicatessen store. Do you think that might help you recall first who it is that is writing to you all. I know I should have written quite some time ago. But being in the Army these days have kept me pretty busy. Moving all the time. But now that I've got a day off I thought I'd drop you all a line or two."

"At the present moment I'm in a country which is called — which is a very nice place. The people here have been very good to us soldiers. But I'd rather be back in the good old U. S. A. But I guess that won't be for some time as yet, being we are still at war. In the event we get back to the States I'll drop in and say hello to you all."

"I've written a few letters to your daughter Mrs. Fry and received a few. You folks have always been good to me and I thought maybe you'd like to hear from an old friend. So Grandmother Moore I hope this letter finds you all well and happy. And in the event you all get time to write to me I sure would appreciate it very much. Closing with best regards to you all."

The other letter also is self-explanatory and is from Mrs. G. P. Carter, of Widnes, England. Sally quotes:

"Dear Mrs. Moore, I am writing to thank you for the knitted gift received by my husband, Gnr. Carter. I am sorry he hadn't wrote himself as he told me he had lost the address, but on his last leave he left his walking out tonic at home and on looking through some old treasured letters of mine I found it, so I took tonight to write and thank you very very much for thinking of our boys here in Britain."

"The people of America are a wonderful race and are all out to help to get this war over and have our men home again. Well, Mrs. Moore, I don't know whether you are young or middle age, or a dear old lady or if you have a family. My husband is 27 and I am 24, also a baby boy Alan 1½ yrs. so we are just a wee family."

"I have 2 brothers in the navy and 1 sister in the W. A. A. F.'s My husband has 1 brother in the Army and we are all doing a bit for the War. I don't know if you live anywhere near Detroit as I have an Aunt living out there. Well I thank you once again very much also the British War Relief Society for its great work."

"So cheerful and God Bless you always, Mrs. G. P. Carter and Alan also Gnr. Carter."

• • • EVER SINCE time immemorial, horseshoes have been indicative of good luck. For that reason, as well as those of sentiment, Virginia Wallin will wear a miniature one when she marries William Lewis Hargis on September 5.

The horseshoe, in reality a lavalier, is formed of pearls and diamonds set in gold and was given to Virginia's mother, Mrs. Henry Wallin, by Mr. Wallin on their wedding day. Virginia will wear the ornament suspended from a chain of tiny gold links, which she wore as a baby.

Another sentimental feature of Virginia's bridal attire is the exquisite handkerchief of rose-point lace that she will carry. It is especially valued by the bride-to-be, for it belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Allen Cooper.

Virginia's "something borrowed" will be her veil of illusion tulle, which is attached to a coronet of orange blossoms. It is being loaned to her by one of her bridesmaids, Louise Connell (Mrs. George) Phillips, who wore it as a bride.

All in the Game

By JACK TROY

Army on Ellis' Side A nice thing about the sports section is that no false issues are raised and the only mud-smeared was during that short-lived period of eccentric wrestling, the huckleberry, ice cream and dead fish era.

On the sports page, barring typographical errors, there is a clear portrayal of the facts. There is generally a complete account of who beat who, the standings of the teams and, perhaps, a bit of gossip pertaining to principals of the sports world.

Rarely any disturbing accounts, unless one happens to be a follower of the Philadelphia, Washington or Knoxville baseball teams.

If a well-known sports figure is divorced, an effort will be made to pass it off on the news side. Only when a famous sports personality dies is it absolutely necessary to present the morbid side of life.

We try to keep away from politics. This is strictly in keeping with the general policy of keeping the sports pages clean.

We almost never mention a Governor, and we wouldn't today, except for a letter from Corporal I. Lewis Merlin, 589th T. S. S., St. Petersburg, Fla.

Corporal Merlin presented an All-Army show which recently attracted 11,000 people at St. Pete. It was written and cast by Merlin, an Atlanta man. He was the master of ceremonies, too.

Writing in connection with the show and other events of Army life, Merlin says:

"All the Georgia boys are pulling for Ellis Arnall for Governor."

I can't think of anything more encouraging or reassuring in these times than to have an Army pulling for you.

Wingback Problem It seems pretty definite that the wingback Wallace Butts considers the best since he has been at Georgia in never play in a varsity game.

Gus Letch, according to a wire received by Butts, who was here for a talk yesterday, has decided to enter a branch of the service.

"It seems that he has made up his mind," Butts pointed out. "We're not going to try to influence him. There are branches he could enter and finish his schooling, but that's strictly up to him."

Letch, a Thomasville boy and brother of the Cracker's Charley, is the best ball carrier for distance running Georgia has had since Butts has been on the coaching staff.

There has been no better athlete at Georgia. But last year he was kept out of action by a technicality—he was declared ineligible because of a summer school rule—and now he seems Navy bound.

"There's only one thing we can do and that is use Lamar Davis at two positions, end and wingback. We'll just alternate him," Butts added.

"Letch would have been regular wingback last year and was sure to be a star this fall," the little round man concluded, sadly.

No Exceptions Both Tech and Georgia have been hit hard by unexpected losses. The Jackets had a lineman named Gene Leonard who would have settled most of the line problems. Coach Alexander called him one of the best line prospects Tech had ever had. He played both guard and tackle.

Georgia's Duck Conger would have been an outstanding end in the south and in the nation. Conger was the star of spring training.

There is no complaint. Both will serve the service well. But in normal times each would have made a great difference in the effectiveness of his respective team.

These are losses that can't be replaced, even with the use of freshmen.

Georgia can get along without Letch, chances are, since Sinkwich and Trippi both are available for service, but the fact still remains he was the finest wingback Georgia has had.

If you were a coach you'd appreciate the feeling that comes with having a great back around and never able to use him in a game.

Howard Plays Green In Decatur Finals

The annual Decatur city tennis tournament is nearing the final rounds after being delayed by the weather during the last two weeks.

Pierre Howard, top-seeded in the men's division, looked to be the favorite again this year—having won the tournament seven out of the nine years he has participated.

In the earlier rounds there were many upsets in both men and women divisions. Clark Tucker, second seeded; Paul Turner, former University of Miami ace, third seeded in the men's division, and Clinton Gore, top-seeded in the juniors, were defeated on the same day.

Finals in the men's singles will bring together Pierre Howard and David Green. Howard defeated Murphy, 6-2, 6-3, 8-6, in the semi-finals, and Green blasted Glover, 6-1, 6-0.

In the junior semi-finals Pat Murphy defeated Bobby Davis, 6-4, 6-3, and John Charles Nelson brushed off David Green, 6-3, 10-8. Nelson lost to Murphy in the finals, 6-3, 6-4.

In the junior doubles finals Roy Brown and Bobby Davis teamed to defeat John Charles Nelson and Clinton Gore, 7-5, 6-8, 6-2.

Play in the men's doubles reached the semi-finals with the top-seeded team of Howard and Tucker playing Nelson and Gore, and Shippey and Green opposing Brown and Davis.

Larry Smith Papa Of 7-Pound Boy Larry Smith, Cracker catcher, was passing out the cigars, rumor had it, in celebration of the birth of a seven-pound son yesterday.

Mrs. Smith and infant son are in California. News of the new arrival was received yesterday.

McGowin Wins 3-Hitter; Crackers, Barons Split

Rambert Bows To Ed Heusser In Opener, 3-2

Vollmer Clouts Fifth Homer Ever Hit Into Left Field Stands.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor. Earl McGowin outlasted Mike Schultz in a brilliant battle of left-handers and the Crackers divided a doubleheader with the Birmingham Barons last night.

The Barons captured a hotly-contested first game on what amounted to about a 1,000-to-1 shot. Pep Rambert was going along with a two-run lead and outpitching ex-Cracker Ed Heusser, when Clyde Vollmer parked one in the left field stands with one. The tied it up and a third run provided the winning margin.

There was no let-up in a hot pitchers' battle, but Heusser was favored by brilliant support and held the 3-2 lead until the end.

The Schultz-McGowin deadlock was settled in the seventh on an error, a sacrifice and a clutch hit, the Crackers winning, 1 to 0. The hits were three apiece.

CONWAY BRILLIANT. Johnny Conway virtually saved Heusser by his phenomenal fielding in the first game, but it was his seventh-inning error that paved the way for a Cracker victory in the second game.

Conway booted a roller by Charley Letch, Marshall Mauldin sacrificed. Letch moved to third on an infield out by Deal. Le-Grant Scott, a former Baron, came through in the clutch, driving a single over Conway's head into left field, scoring Letch. Scott got two of the Crackers' three hits.

In the first game, the Crackers outthrew the Barons, eight to six, but Heusser simply had unbeatable support after Vollmer's 1,000-to-1 home run.

As for speed, the Baron-Cracker doubleheader might have set a new season's record for the league. The first game was completed in an hour and a half and the second game went only an hour and 20 minutes.

HEALTHY WALLOP. A check-up revealed that, in addition to homers hit by other Barons, Art Letch and Henry Sauer, McGowin hit a Memphis, Marion Adair, Ortiz, of Chattanooga, parked one in the distant stands. It takes a wallop of 400 feet, at the minimum, to clear the barrier. The distance is 365 feet right down the line, but no batter has ever hit one there.

When the series opened last night the teams had met 14 times, with seven victories each. Now it's 16 times and they're still even at eight wins apiece. And by splitting the twin bill the Crackers maintained their two-game lead over the Barons.

Annual Red Cross Night is scheduled tonight, with all proceeds going to this cause. The Barons are donating their part of the receipts and everybody pays, players, writers, etc.

McGowin's brilliant pitching last night stamped him as one of the most brilliant left-handed pitchers since Uncle Tom Sunkel. He had speed to burn, a sharp-breaking curve and plenty of control.

Rambert also had a lot on the ball, but he was simply unfortunate. He grooved a 1,000-to-1 pitch.

FIRST GAME. The Crackers batted three hits count for two runs in the second inning. Scott started it with a single, and O'Brien and Smith followed with doubles, putting Heusser and the Barons in a hole.

Gamble led off the fourth with a double. Vollmer then batted a homer into the left-field stands between the foul pole and the light standard. Oddly, of five homers hit into the stands since the diamond was shifted around, three have been Baron homers.

Art Letch, Hank Sauer and Vollmer. Adair of Memphis, also hit one, as did Roberto Ortiz, of Chattanooga. The Barons continued the assault and took the lead as Dejan walked Goldstein singled and West grounded out, Dejan scoring.

The Crackers rallied in the ninth. Deal singled and Scott walked with one away. But O'Brien hit into a double play, ending the game.

Athens Navy Vies With Terps Nov. 21 COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 25. (P)—The University of Maryland completed a nine-game football schedule today with announcement of a game November 21 at Athens, Ga., with the Georgia Pre-Flight School team.

Maryland will play another service opponent, the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, on October 3 at College Park. A game had been scheduled December 5 with Keiser Field until the latter canceled its program.

$2,240.80 Paid In Daily Double CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (P)—A daily double payoff of $2,240.80—second largest of the season—posted at Washington Park today when Verdella won the first race at $197.60 and Bright Ann took the second at $7.60. Yesterday's double paid $1,555.60.

Twelve winning tickets were split among the crowd of 12,000.

Both Verdella and Bright Ann came through in photo finishes. Under a hustling ride by James Thornburg, Verdella outscrambled Wawfield and Spring Drift. Verdella paid $74.20 to place, $56.20 to show.

UNUSUAL BUT EFFECTIVE—Among his other equipment, Tex Hughson, above, left, Boston Red Sox promising rookie right-hander, has a knuckle ball that takes an unusual grip. Here is the Hughson version which reveals that his middle finger does not come in contact with the ball. Proof that the grip is okay lies in Tex's record of 17 victories for the season. No. 17 was a four-hitter 2-0 shutout he handed the Athletics Sunday.

Bulldogs Lose Gus Letchas To the Navy

Ace Looked So Good in Spring Drills Davis Was Shifted to End.

By F. M. WILLIAMS.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 25.—Gus Letchas, the Thomasville boy who was the victim of a Southern Conference scholastic ruling last year, will never perform for the University of Georgia on the football field.

He's joined the Navy. Letchas notified Coach Wallace Butts by letter today that he would not return to Athens next Tuesday when football practice begins. He said he expected to be inducted into the Navy soon, already having enlisted.

Letchas' career at Georgia was brief, but it was interesting. As a freshman he was one of the finest halfback prospects in the school's history. He was shifted to wingback last fall and in two weeks had gained a regular position. Then, at the opening game, Coach Butts was notified that Letchas had been ruled ineligible because he ended summer school to get sufficient credits to gain the sophomore class.

In spring practice, he and Jerry Nunnally showed so much promise, Lamar Davis, regular for two years, was shifted to end, where strength was sorely needed.

Letchas' decision to join the Navy left Nunnally holding the No. 1 spot almost without competition. The Athenian and Jackie Pounds, of Atlanta, are the only wingbacks left.

Whether Coach Butts will let Letchas play the lone end, or whether he will shift Davis back, is not known. The Bulldog mentor was out of the city today.

Norman Harrison, wingback on the freshman team last fall, is now playing blocking back, but he may go back to the halfback slot when practice opens next September. If Nunnally becomes a regular, his story will be one of the strangest the game has ever produced.

It wasn't until his last game in high school that he had ever shown enough promise to be offered a college scholarship.

During spring practice of his freshman year he was advised to give up the game because of a thin skull, but he returned to the gridiron last fall with a specially constructed headgear and he has been improving ever since.

Coach Butts thought him the most improved player on the team during spring drills.

American Women Know How To Dress Even in Wartime

American women in wartime still are living up the dictum of being the world's best dressed women—best dressed because they wear practical clothes which "make them look equal to their jobs."

So R. N. Dowling, representative of a garment manufacturing company, told some 500 delegates from 23 southern states, gathered for the 10th annual convention of the Southern Garment Industry, which is scheduled to close its three-day session at the Biltmore hotel this morning.

Urging the garment manufacturers to produce work clothes for women, who now are working side by side with men in factories, he said that the month of July showed a 257 per cent gain over 1941 in the number of women working in war production plants. "By next year," he added, "at least 6,000,000 women are expected to be employed in war plants."

Safety Requirements. Because of the increasing number of women workers, many requirements for the garb of the best-dressed women in plane and munitions plants will wear, he explained. "There must be no belts, loose sleeves, or large pockets to catch in machines."

"The second consideration in clothing women in this all-out war is keeping up morale," he asserted. "By requiring the women to wear a sort of work uniform, there is no typically feminine competition as to who will wear the prettiest clothes. They are added, 'when the girls are in uniform, they feel more like a part of the fighting forces.'"

Six members of the Decatur Junior League modeled the latest war outfits for feminine war workers in factories. The most popular numbers, according to Dowling, included a one-piece overall, a two-piece overall, an overall with matching shirt, a jumper overall, and a jumper dress.

These garments combine comeliness with the practicality of such features as concealed buttons, set-in belts, slash pockets, and adjustable ankle tabs. Some of them have special micrometer and pencil pockets, he said.

Defending the War Production Board from charges of inefficiency made by its critics, J. W. Peters, materials specialist of the War Production Board, declared that American industry "has been handicapped by lack of space, equipment, and especially personnel which lacked the capacity for wartime thinking and wartime planning."

"The WPB," he continued, "could not grow and learn slowly. Time and war would not permit. Although in some directions we have failed, in others we have succeeded. For instance, over 250,000 tons of iron and steel have been saved by curtailment orders against kitchen utensils, lawn mower and other such manufacturers of peacetime goods."

Munitions Output. "The production of steel plate has doubled since last October. By the middle of November, 15,000,000 persons will be employed in war industries, in comparison with 7,500,000 last December. The munitions output has tripled since Pearl Harbor," he added.

"We are a rich and powerful nation, but we cannot afford to waste our resources. If we waste them, we waste the lives of our sons. The War Production Board has done a good job in increasing and converting production facilities, but has not done so well in controlling the flow of war materials."

Accusing many businessmen of still not thinking in terms of total war, he asserted: "We must conserve, concentrate and fight. We must never again say, 'Too little too late.' We must say, 'Today enough, tomorrow more.'"

Many high-ranking officials from the Quartermaster Department of the United States Army were guests at the convention. Other speakers for the day included: Colonel H. M. Manderbaker, Major Albert E. Denny, Major Robert J. Dillon, Lowell E. Hawthorne, assistant to the director of purchases, War Production Board; Donald B. Tansil, vice president of Eppel Manufacturing Company, New York city, and E. E. Elliott, Office of Price Administration, Washington, D. C.

Fort Lauderdale To Practice 'Riot'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Aug. 25.—(P)—A mock riot will cause this city to be put under "martial law" for two hours Thursday while a company of the Florida defense force battles with citizens posing as saboteurs and demonstrating Axis sympathizers.

"Rioters" will attempt to storm the city jail and free a dozen "saboteurs" placed there as if they had been arrested by police.

The defense force company, now holding a week's field maneuvers, will be summoned from a camp near the city to round up escaped prisoners and arrest the ringleaders.

Scottie Pin Taken From Baby's Throat

Little Sandra Jeanne Knowles, who had a Scottie (not a frog) in her throat Monday, is resting easily today after doctors at the Georgia Baptist hospital at noon yesterday removed the offending hair clasp.

Two-year-old Sandra, who lives at 4300 Boulevard, swallowed the Scottie clasp while taking her nap, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Knowles, rushed her to the hospital after she had a severe coughing attack.

Since their first attempt was unsuccessful physicians broke the Scottie the second time and took it out in pieces.

SCHOOL ADDITION.

COCHRAN, Ga., Aug. 25.—An addition of two classrooms is being made to the city Negro school. This building is of brick and the city estimates the project will cost $2,000. This will enable the Negro children to complete the high school grades here.

... The Market Basket

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

Because it is relatively cheap and still miraculously available, the plebeian pork liver is greatly in demand at meat counters nowadays. It sells for 25 cents a pound and with beef liver 33 cents a pound, offers a likely substitute for the more expensive calf's liver.

Veal roast, boned and rolled, is still a market standby at around 33 to 35 cents a pound.

Produce men and their customers are celebrating National Tomato Week this week with lively traffic in luscious homegrown tomatoes at two pounds for 15 cents. String beans are selling for the same and white grapes are still plentiful at around 12 cents a pound.

Doctor Scarcity Seen at Savannah

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 25.—(P) The Savannah Morning News says that "doctors who remain here are being pushed almost to the limit of endurance to care for the increased practice which has fallen to them" because of the drain of medical men into the armed services.

"The situation is aggravated by the fact that Savannah's war-time increase in population was not accompanied by a commensurate increase in the number of physicians," the paper said.

The News quoted Dr. E. Nesbitt Gleason, president of the Georgia Medical Society, a Savannah organization, as saying that he did not yet consider the situation serious but that it might become so if there was a big increase in pneumonia cases this winter, or if there was any epidemic.

LANCELOT HANNEN DIES.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(P)—The death of Lancelot Hannen, 75, who in the last half-century disposed of many of the world's great masterpieces for Christie's Art Dealers, was announced yesterday.

Site of Ancient Camden Ruins Given to State

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 25.—(P)—Nearly 100 acres of woodland in Camden county on which are ruins which some believe to be the old Santa Maria Mission, built by the Spaniards almost 200 years before General Oglethorpe brought his colonists to Georgia's shores, have been given the state for development as a park.

Some historians think the ruins are an old sugar mill, while others believe they are the crumbling walls of the mission where Spanish monks labored to convert the Indians.

The State Department of Natural Resources announced the gift of land from the Georgia Timber Company, branch of Rayonier, Inc. "According to some historians," said the department, announcing the gift, "Santa Maria was built about 1566 by Pedro Menendez de Aviles, Spanish adventurer and soldier, who had been sent to the new world by King Philip II to break up the far too successful stakes claimed by the French along the Atlantic seaboard."

"Menendez surprised the French on the St. Mary's, massacred them and then with a band of 50 followers began a colony which was to endure for the Spanish 100 years."

"All went well for a while and it seemed the monks and priests were successful in Christianizing their Indian brethren. Then one day the Indians tired of it all, turned on their would-be saviors and massacred them. The few who escaped fled the country and so ended Spanish occupation in that section."

Whatever the ruins are, mission or sugar mill, they stand in a setting of woodland beauty.

TRUCK LINES KEEP 'EM ROLLING

It's a Patriotic Duty To Safeguard All Equipment

Truck lines in Georgia have always realized the high necessity of well-cared-for equipment in their big job of supplying far-flung communities with the necessities of life. Today that realization has become almost a religion—for the times put a premium on every part of every piece of rolling stock.

That is why you will find the "ground crews" of trucking companies more zealously active than ever—that is why tune-ups and overhauls are frequent and exacting—that is why tires are switched and inspected and nursed like babies—that is why no unnecessary and unavoidable trips are made—THAT IS WHY WE ARE ENLISTING THE CO-OPERATION OF SHIPPERS TO PREVENT EXTRA MILEAGE.

Truck lines are an essential part of the war program—they are vital to the daily lives of every town and city they serve—and they will safeguard the equipment needed so that this service may continue.

Shippers and Receivers can help by:

1. Advise us in advance of shipments to be handled that day.
2. Have shipments ready for loading when truck arrives and release truck promptly.
3. Have bills of lading ready when truck is loaded.
4. To eliminate numerous customers calling at same time, schedule pick-up times.
5. ELIMINATE REQUEST FOR MORE THAN ONE PICK-UP A DAY.
6. Expedite unloading of inbound freight, and provide adequate platform space.
7. ACCEPT FREIGHT WHEN OFFERED FOR DELIVERY.

This Message to You Is Presented By a Group of Leading and Progressive Truck Lines Operating in Georgia
